FOREWORD

This edition of the Summit takes on a new appearance with the use of color. Through our efforts we have strived to present to you a year-book which will serve to link the past with the present in a most effective way. We have attempted to capture and preserve between these covers precious memories and unforgettable sentiments which have gone hand in hand with the multitude of realities of the past year.

The staff would like to thank all of those without whose efforts this book would not have been possible.

With these thoughts, we proudly present to you, the students, your 1967 Summit.

THE SUMMIT STAFF

Summit Staff

Gretchen Damilano--Editor, Father Terry Niziolek--Advisor.

Betsy Meyer--Department Co-editor, Ed Thoma and Peggy Pitchford--Copy Co-editors, Jane Henderson--Department Co-editor, Pat Poland and Marsha Jackson--Lay-out Co-editors.

Tom Cole, Carole Kaine, Marty Wilder--Business editor, Mrs. Betty Lash--Business advisor.

Publishing the SUMMIT involves many activities complemented by an array of personalities. Above the rustling of papers, the groans of frustration, and the murmuring of voices, Gretchen's cacophonous reiterations are heard as she tries to impress upon someone that she isn't super-human. When laughter arises it's a probable indication that Fr. Terry is enlivening the copy writers with useless but facetious headlines and ideas which serve to stimulate their minds. Pat and Marsha can't realize why more bled pages can't be incorporated into the book. Sharon's efforts are thwarted by the realization that the needed pictures are over-exposed and the clearer pictures can't be used as substitutions. Wierzba thinks the minimum sport coverage should be twenty-five pages. Could he be prejudiced? Elbow deep in files, Marty endeavors to defend the SUMMIT when the HILLTOPPER staff comes in to get the "share" typewriter. SUMMIT personalities aren't always observed overshadowed by unpleasant realities. You should see them when they have met a deadline and their innermost satisfaction is reflected outwardly.

Spirit of '67

and Grows . . .
and Moves
Spirit Lives

. . . Down This Walk

Spirit has an elusive ethereal quality about it which allows for limitless possibilities. Spirit has a hundred faces and feelings. And yet, within these possibilities lies the certainty that the unfolding of spirit is always dynamic, always moving, always accepting the challenge to grow. Schlarman's "Spirit S" is only an image, a paper and pencil man, but he was designed to evoke student response to an openness to life and movement and growth. The spirit he calls to life runs deep, beneath and beyond everyday activities which only ruffle the surface of our lives. He awakens in us the promise of that moment in life called 1967 when we studied and played and laughed and shared and dreamed together. He challenges us to live not at a distance, but close to the flow of Schlarman life, immersed within its possibilities. Although he is only an image, but then aren't we all, he is very real to us. And so to tell the story of Schlarman's spirit is to tell your story--for the spirit is you.

. . . Through These Halls

. . . Across These Tables

... Over This Counter

The scene is a quiet one; the mood is permeated with the sounds of silence. The autumn sun beats out a burnished banter along the paths of our minds. Our minds and hearts come alive with the "Spirit of '67". The hum and whirr of the serious side of our generation drowns out the complacent monotone of the beat rebellion. Learning, perseverance, and hard work take a special meaning in our high school years. The student-teenager realizes that his school years come to an end all too quickly and all too soon he will be thrust into a far greater learning process. The possibilities of greatness are shrinking in our rush toward maturity. But the realization that our chance for achievement is but dawning, typifies the "Spirit of '67", a spirit boundless in enthusiasm, unchained, and uninhibited. It is a restless spirit born to be heard, that can only spring from learning. What is this spirit then? Some say it's just a paper and pencil man, as is our little friend, but we know better. Spirit is just as real as any of us. Spirit makes itself a part of everyone. But by merely knowing this spirit we become a part of it and are a better person for it.

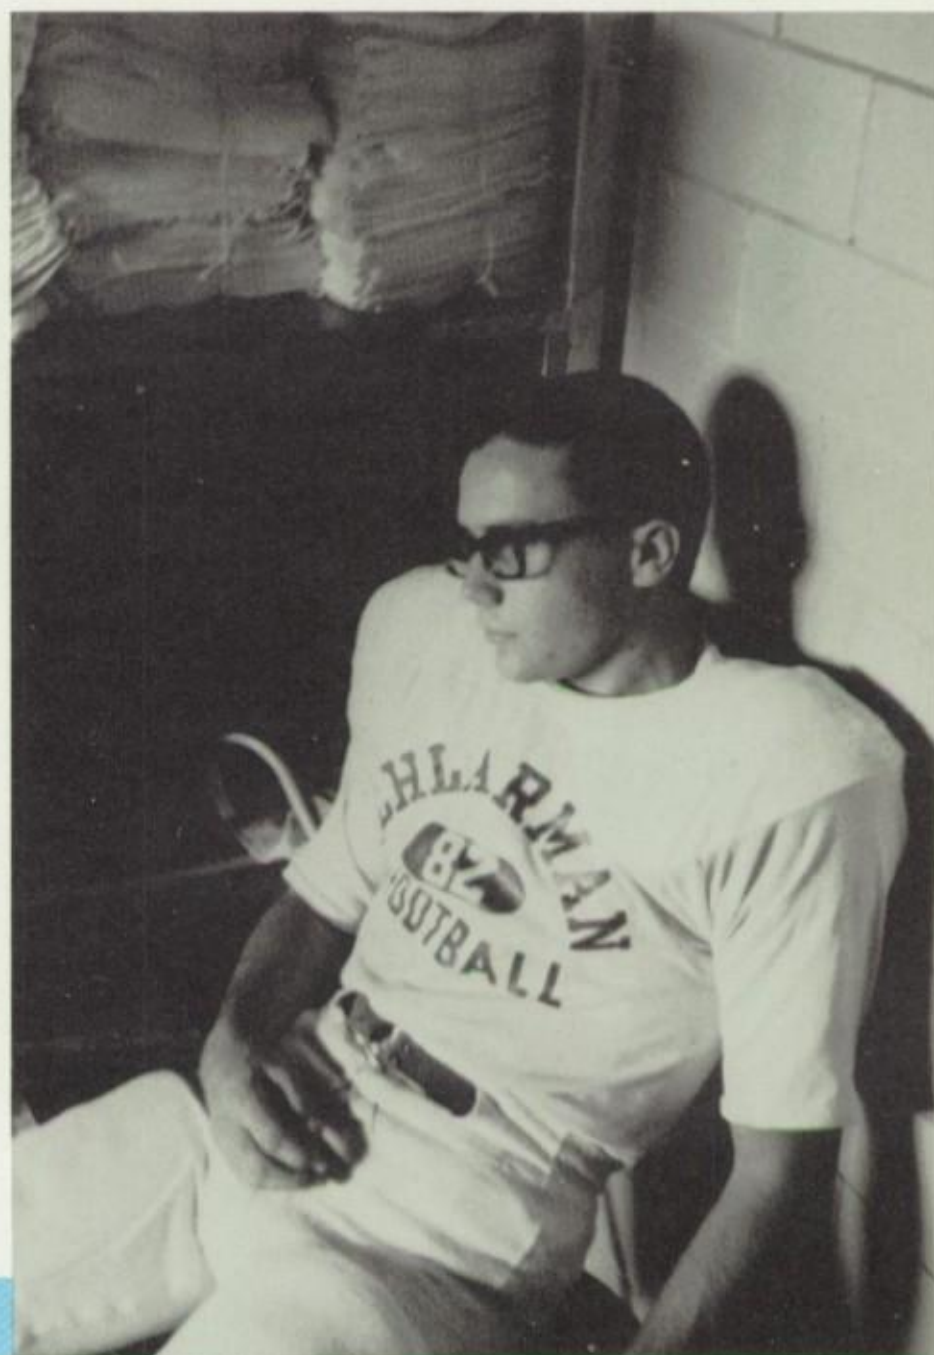

... In These Classrooms

The band blares out a trombone and drum melody. The lights are bright, the crowd, happy. Try to remember that kind of October when hearts were young and voices mellow. The team runs onto the field. YEAAAAH TEAM!!! Come success or defeat we stand behind our team, the "Spirit S" happily flying over our shoulders. The direction of our thoughts is straight and one of purpose--"End, center, tackle, guard, get your man and smear him!"

The scoreboard takes on an awesome image pronouncing, it seems in a most frenzied moment, the final judgement on OUR team. Most appropriately on this night, it has a kind and merciful countenance: 35-0. As we walk hand in hand from the stands with the "Spirit S", the glow of victory tallies in our thoughts.

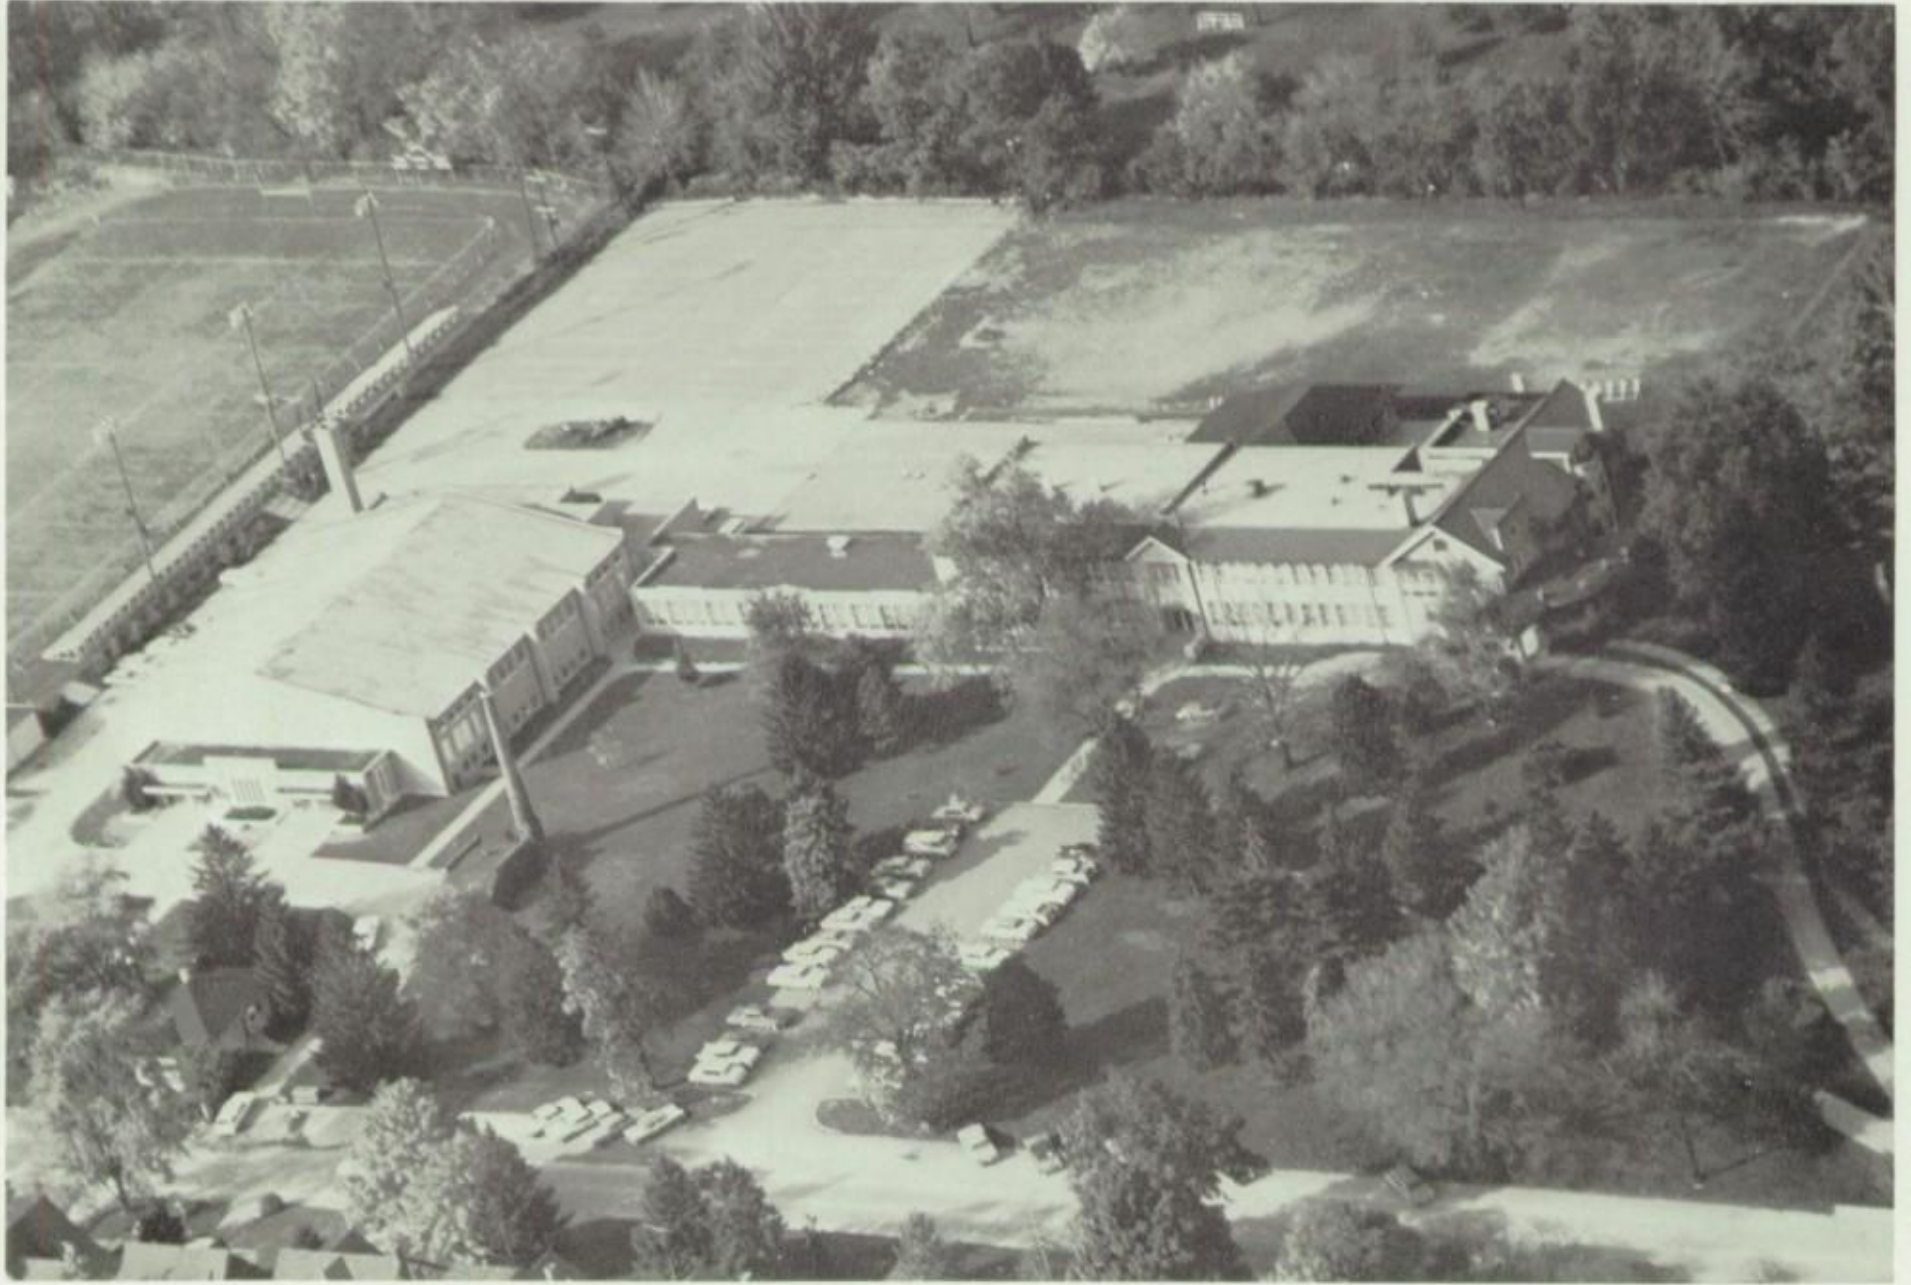

... Among These People

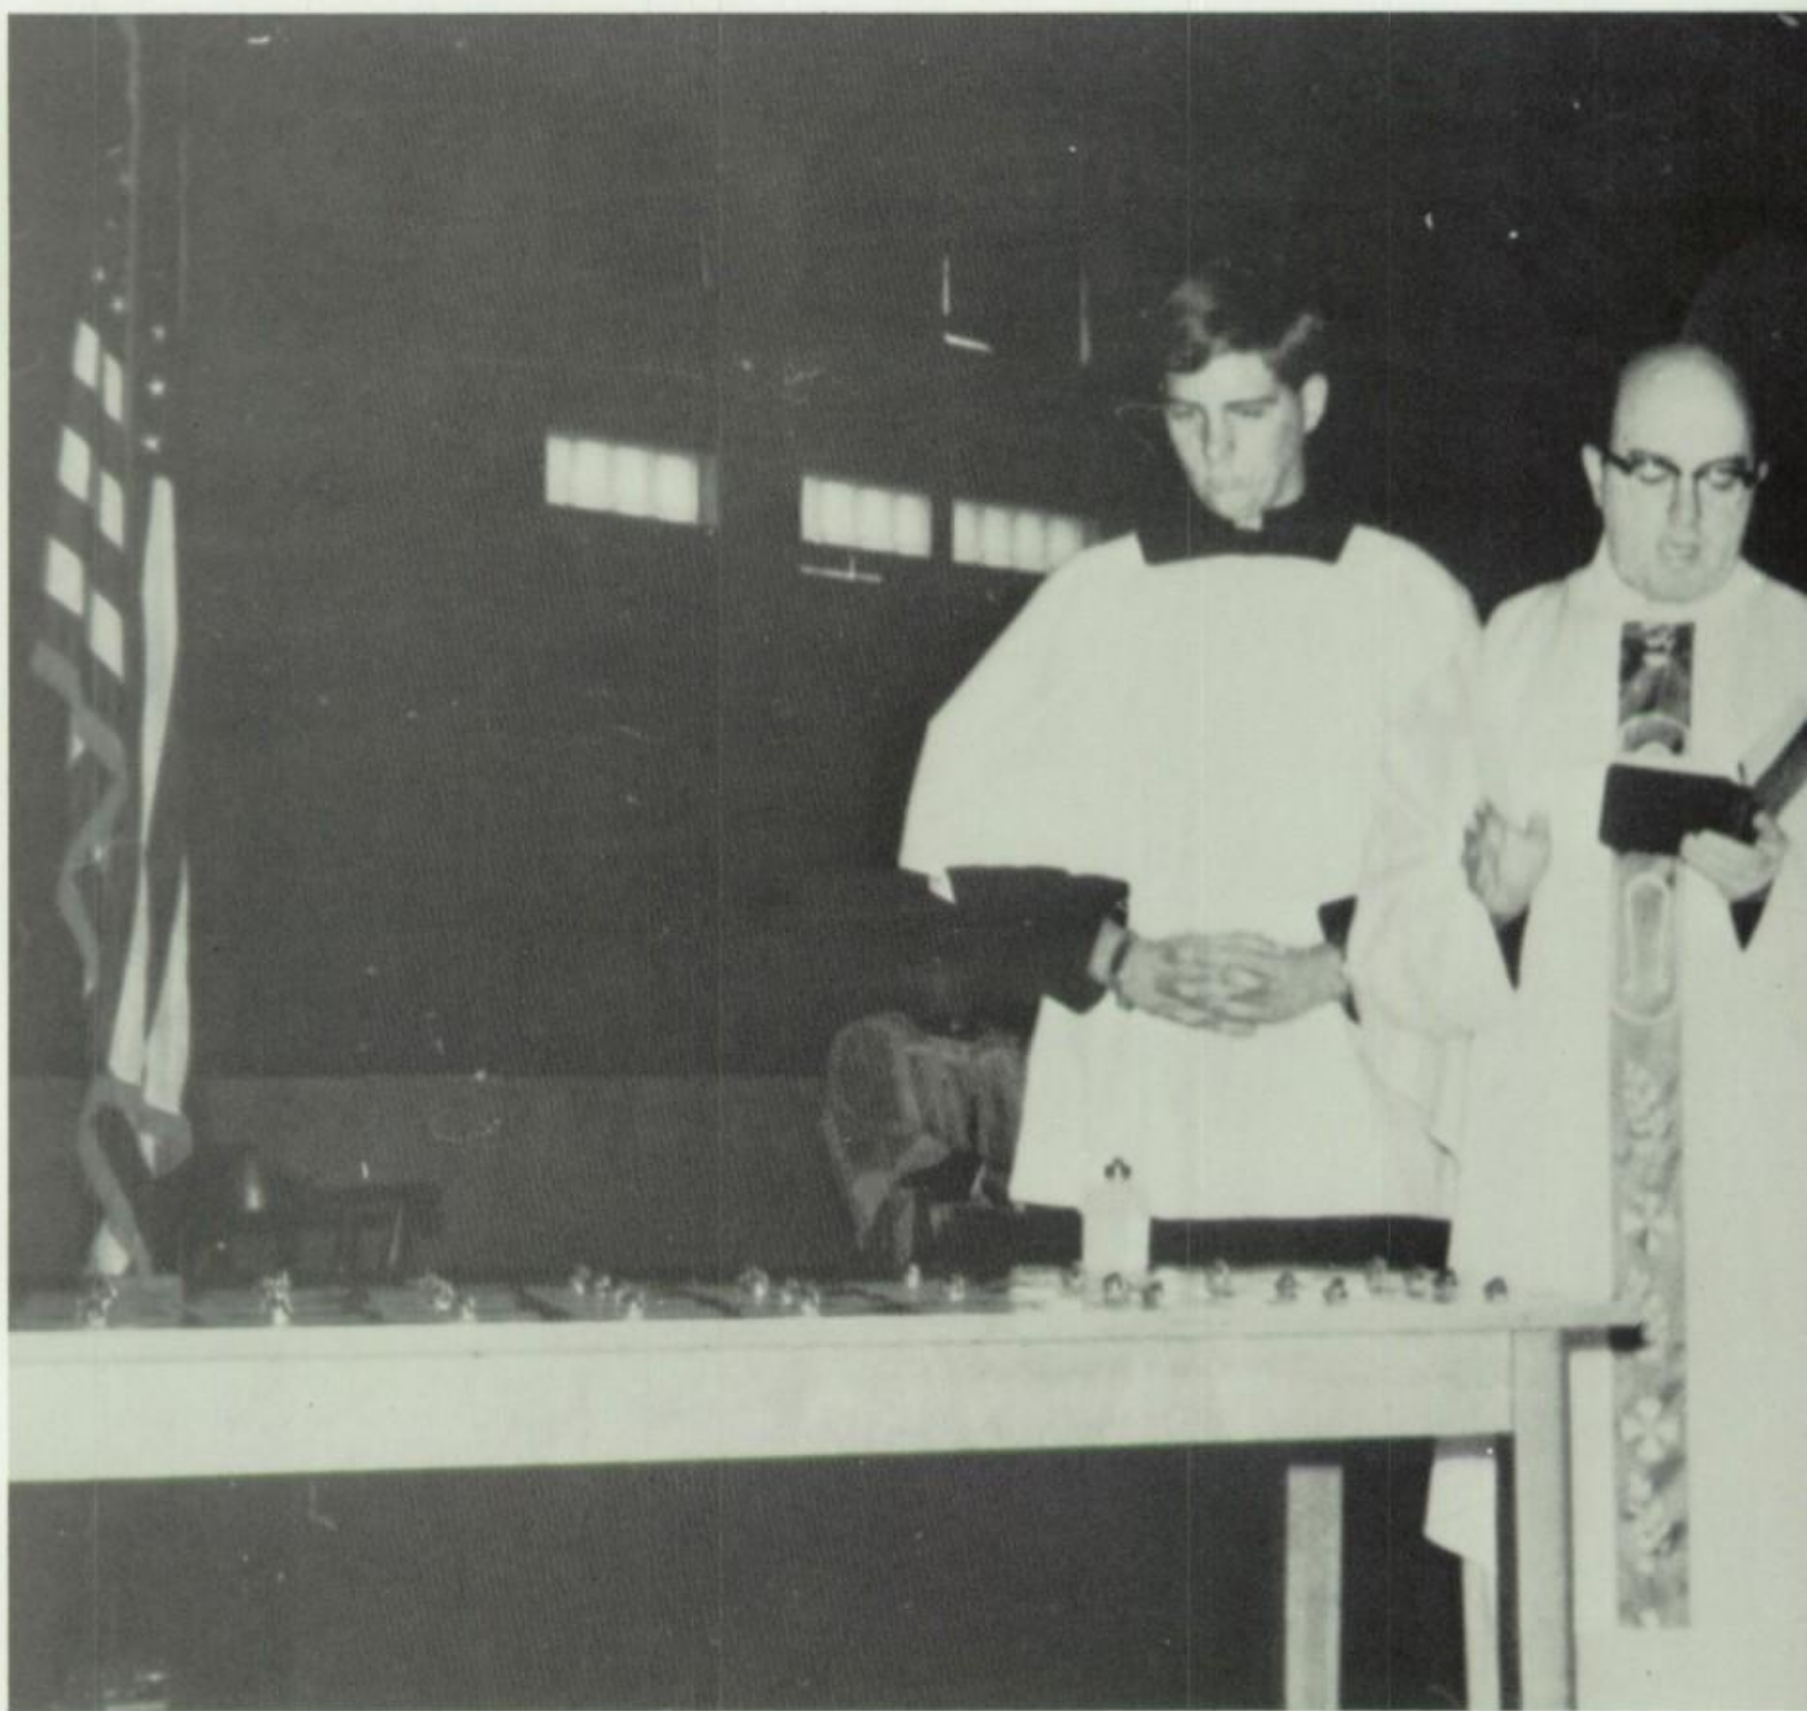

. . . Throughout the Year

. . . For the Spirit Is You

Up and down, in and out, above and below, among and within, there is spirit. He's where the action is because life and movement and growth are his calling cards. He's a little idealistic, but then what's life without a few dreams, especially while we're young. He has a long road to travel, but, as you can see, he's on his way. The future awaits him down every road he travels with its own ups and downs, ins and outs, highs and lows. He takes us on a journey into tomorrow, a horizon not ventured upon. But because we came to know him at Schlarman, that journey is a gratifying quest.

Activities

Harvest Festival

A carnival atmosphere dominated the Schlarman scene on October 2, as the Home and School Association sponsored the annual Harvest Festival. The area surrounding the practice football field was transformed into a midway of fun and games. The various booths with their jovial occupants offered an assortment of entertainment and prizes for everyone from the truly young to the young at heart. The gnawing appetities caused by the brisk autumn day were satisfied by a delectable smorgasbord dinner in the cafeteria. The culmination of the festivities came at the Harvest Festival Dance, when Nancy Schroeder was crowned by the Student Council president, Jim Ready. Music was supplied by the Villagers. Attendants to the queen were Kathy Bahls, Susie Jenkins, Robin Pluth, Marsha Lapenas, Sally Dobbles, Cindy Sheehan, Meg Cognition, and Terry Kobie.

College Day

College day provides students with answers to the many questions they have concerning their future education. Whether a student is interested in a Catholic college, a branch of the Armed Forces, or a secular institution, he is able to discuss possible educational opportunities with college representatives. College representatives from Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, and Minnesota came to Schlarman. Among those colleges represented were Loyola University, Chicago; Rosary College, Chicago; Madonna College, Livonia, Michigan; St. Francis, Fort Wayne, Indiana; Christian Brothers College, Memphis, Tennessee; and Danville Junior College. This year Sue Boswell, a Schlarman graduate of the class of '66, gave the girls some insights into St. Francis Hospital School of Nursing in Peoria, Illinois. Mrs. Lenore Henderson, the mother of Schlarman's trio of Hendersons, represented St. Benedict College of St. Joseph, Minnesota.

1966 Homecoming

Schlarman students turned out en masse for the homecoming pep assembly. The crisp autumn air reverberated with the shouts of loyal Schlarmanites. S Club president, Eric Eberhardt, introduced our three coaches, who limped to the microphone for their traditional pep talks. Mr. Shebby, the prophet peasant-killer, predicted a 35-0 Schlarman victory. Mr. Williams and Mr. Miglin echoed his sentiments. Eric then acknowledged the senior football players, whose insights on the hard, COLD, facts of football were surprisingly short.

During the premiere presentation of the queen and her court, Mrs. Marilyn Calvin was introduced as the 1966 Sweetheart. Then the students snake-danced to the bonfire for the Cornjerker immolation.

The next evening, the Toppers catapulted to a 35-0 halftime lead over the hapless Corn Jerkers of Hoopston. The the senior class president, Jim Farrell, introduced the 1966 Homecoming Queen, Marsha Jackson and the members of the queen's court. Schlarman's reserves played most of the second half and the young Toppers clung to Mr. Shebby's 35-0 magic margin.

Golden Autumn

Is it true--is it "in" not to dance at dances?

Schlarman students found a lovely "Golden Autumn" at the Homecoming dance, as a dazzling queen reigned over an enchanted forest. Color leaped amid the trees adorning the hall. A golden harvest moon glimmered softly, silhouetted in the trees. And in one forest glade, a shimmering camp-fire offered its glow to the still night air. In this atmosphere one truly felt inclined to remain forever.

Marsha Jackson was crowned 1966 Homecoming Queen by Linda Leahy, last year's queen.

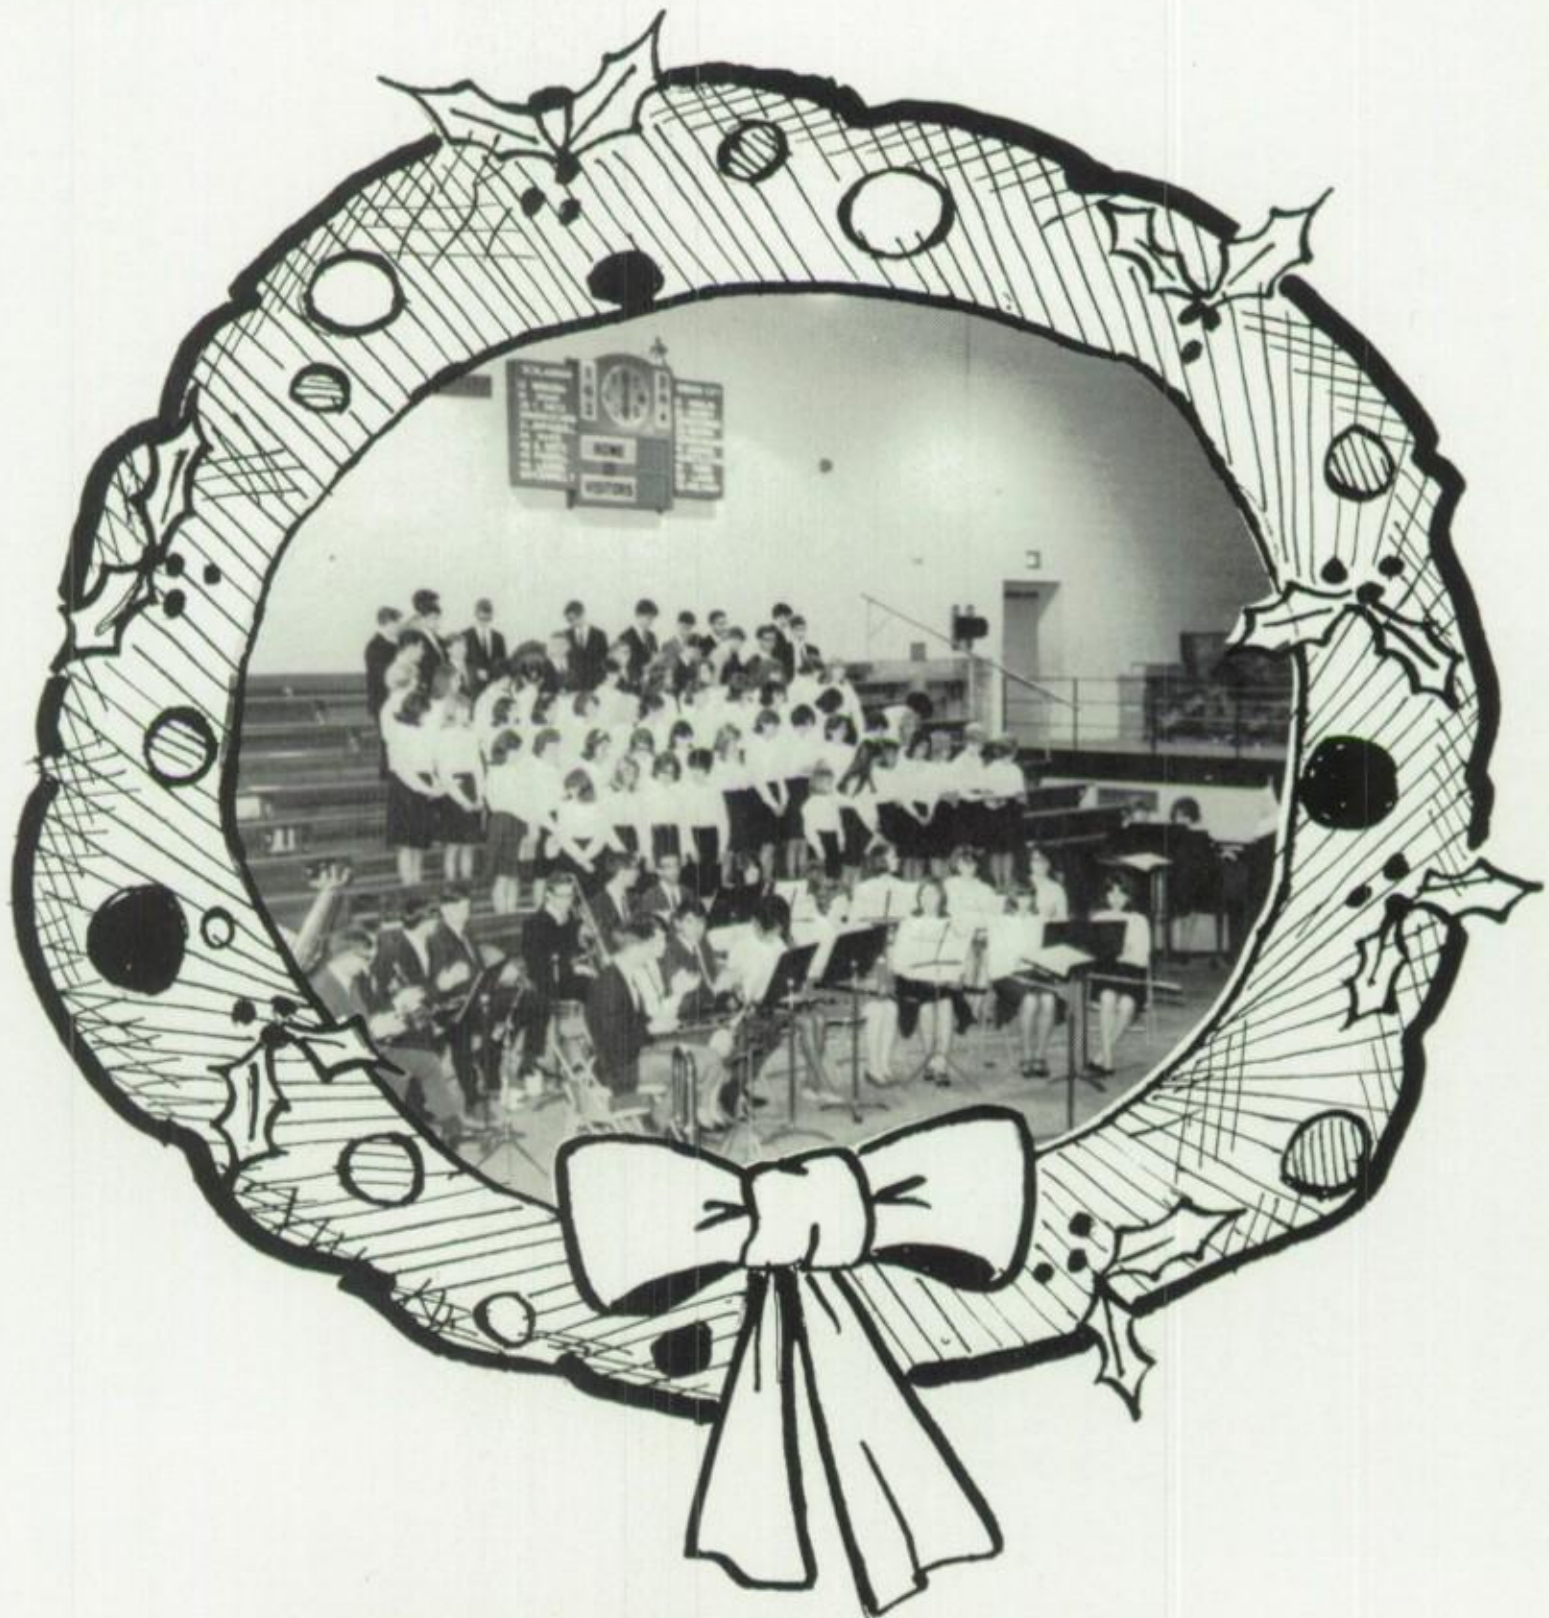

Hurry Bill, everyone is watching us.

Christmas Musical

While chestnuts were roasting in an open fire and Jack Frost was nipping at your nose the carolers, chorus, and band members were staying after school and making their way to school early Saturday mornings for rehearsals of this year's Christmas Musical. The results of their hard work was summed up by Father Kelly at the Christmas assembly when he said that Sister Amadeus and the students had once again put together an excellent Christmas program of songs. The music of Christmas included in the program was a medley of songs sung by the strolling carolers, selections from Handel's "Messiah" sung by the chorus and "Christmas Around the World" played by the band.

IT WITH YOU

"You Can't Take It With You," a successful Broadway play written by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman, was presented by the senior class. Under the direction of Mrs. Kathryn Randolph, the cast captivantly brought the play to life. This is the story of the happy-go-lucky Sycamore family, who in the eyes of the modern world are far from normal. In contrast to these delightful people are the unhappy Kirbys. Tony, the attractive son of the Kirby's, falls in love with Alice Sycamore, and the two families meet face to face. The shock sustained by the Kirbys shows that the marriage is out of the question. But all ends happily as the Sycamores teach the Kirbys how to live sensibly and enjoy life. Gary Smith, who portrayed Grandpa Vanderhof, easily captured the hearts of the audience with his humorous performance.

Somebody

Josephine Rodman, Queen;
Jim Ready, her escort.

A refreshing oasis tinted with a myriad of color, an evening enhanced by soft sounds and stardust and a special secret shared with that special someone . . . these and many other things made February 26 a unique experience recaptured only in warm memories and pleasant recollections. Like a gentle spring zephyr the music of the Fisher Combo lulled couples into the realm of a new world of sights and fragrances. The radiant queen climaxed the night with an aura of subtle majesty and charm--Josephine Rodman wore the jewel-studded crown while holding tenure over the wonderland of springtime. The lovely attendants lent their exquisite elegance and complemented the beautiful flowers and scenery most delightfully. In its entirety, the dance created atmosphere of splendor, magnificence, and charm enriched by those who experienced a once in a lifetime pleasure.

Retreat

Seniors Travel to King's House

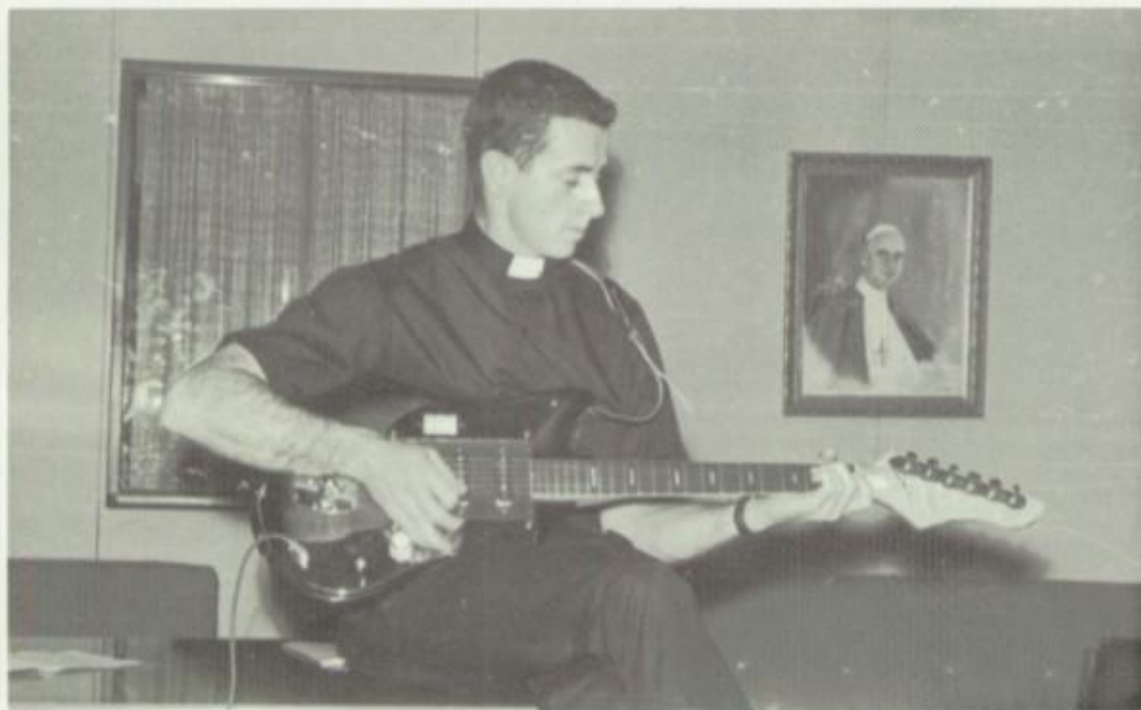

Sing along with Betsy at evening recreation.

After two days at King's House In Henry, Illinois, the Seniors readily broadened their idea of retreats, characterized by a solemn silence, to that which includes group discussions and dialogue conferences. In an atmosphere of complete relaxation, a student rarely found time to be distracted because of the full schedule that was presented. Father Curt's open personality endeared him to all of the retreatants. The priests at the house were always available for private conferences and usually sat in on the discussions to provide answers, advice, or their own opinions on some of the controversial subjects discussed. Father Hussey furnished guitar music for evening recreation and for the Mass. The students celebrated a "young peoples" Mass accentuated by music which had greater meaning for them. They actively participated throughout the Mass gaining an impressionable religious experience. Father Curt and the retreat staff provided the Seniors with an unforgettable christian experience.

Hello, Father Kelly? This is Jane. We're having a great time!

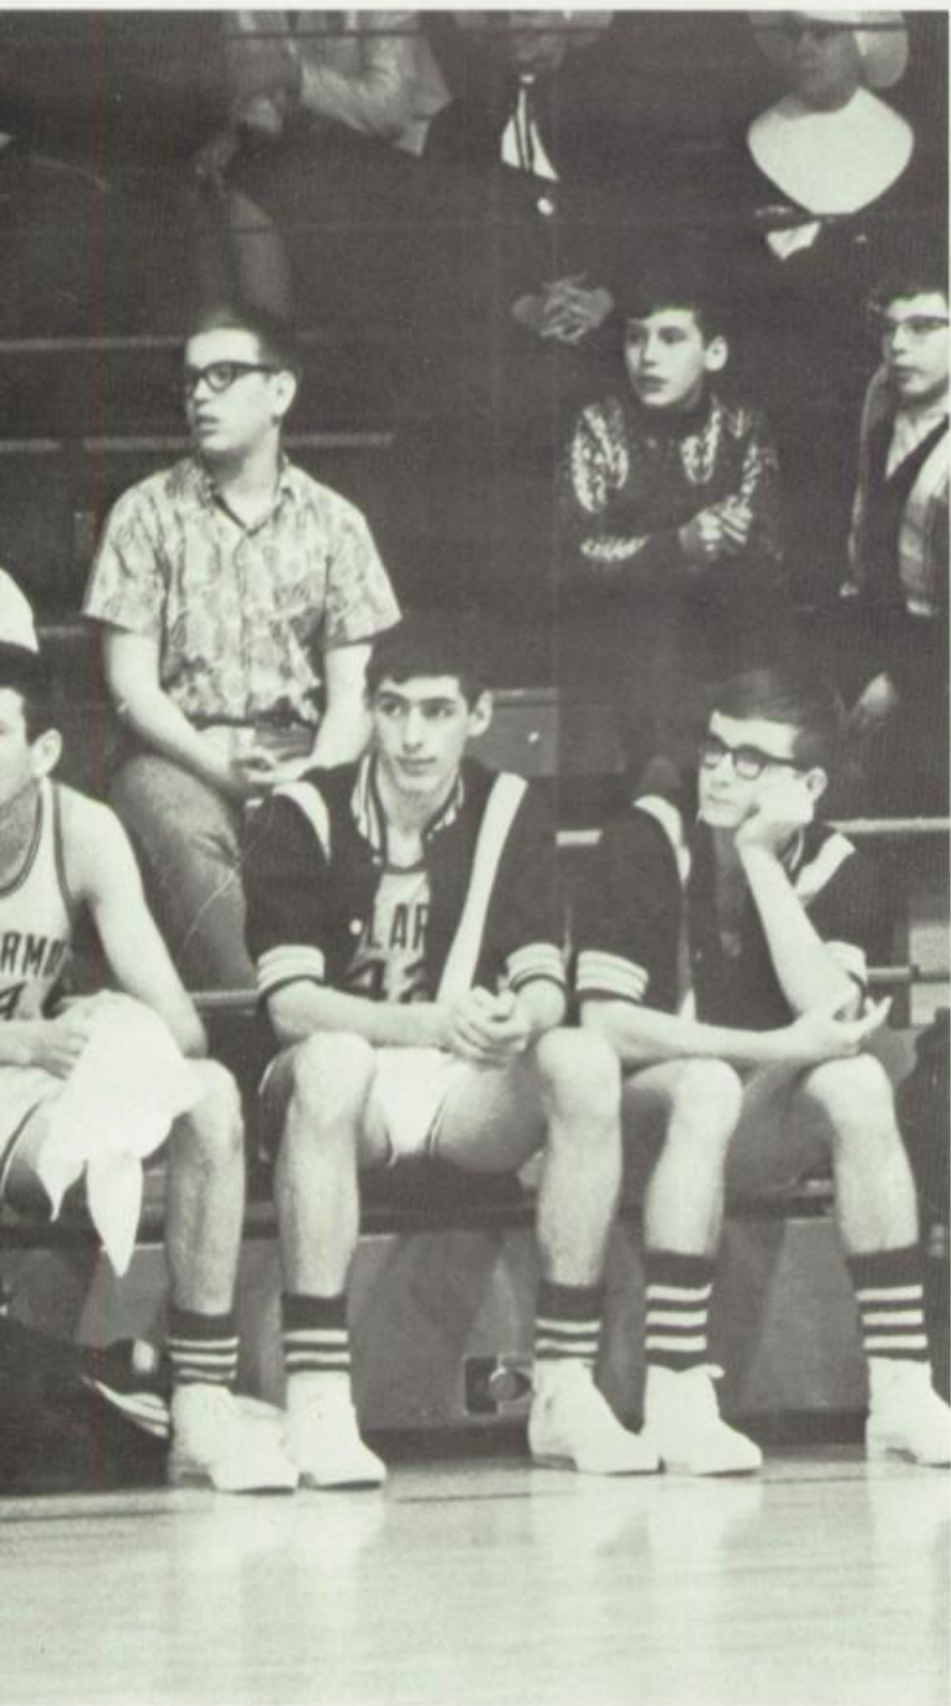

Underclass Retreat Shortened by Winter Storm

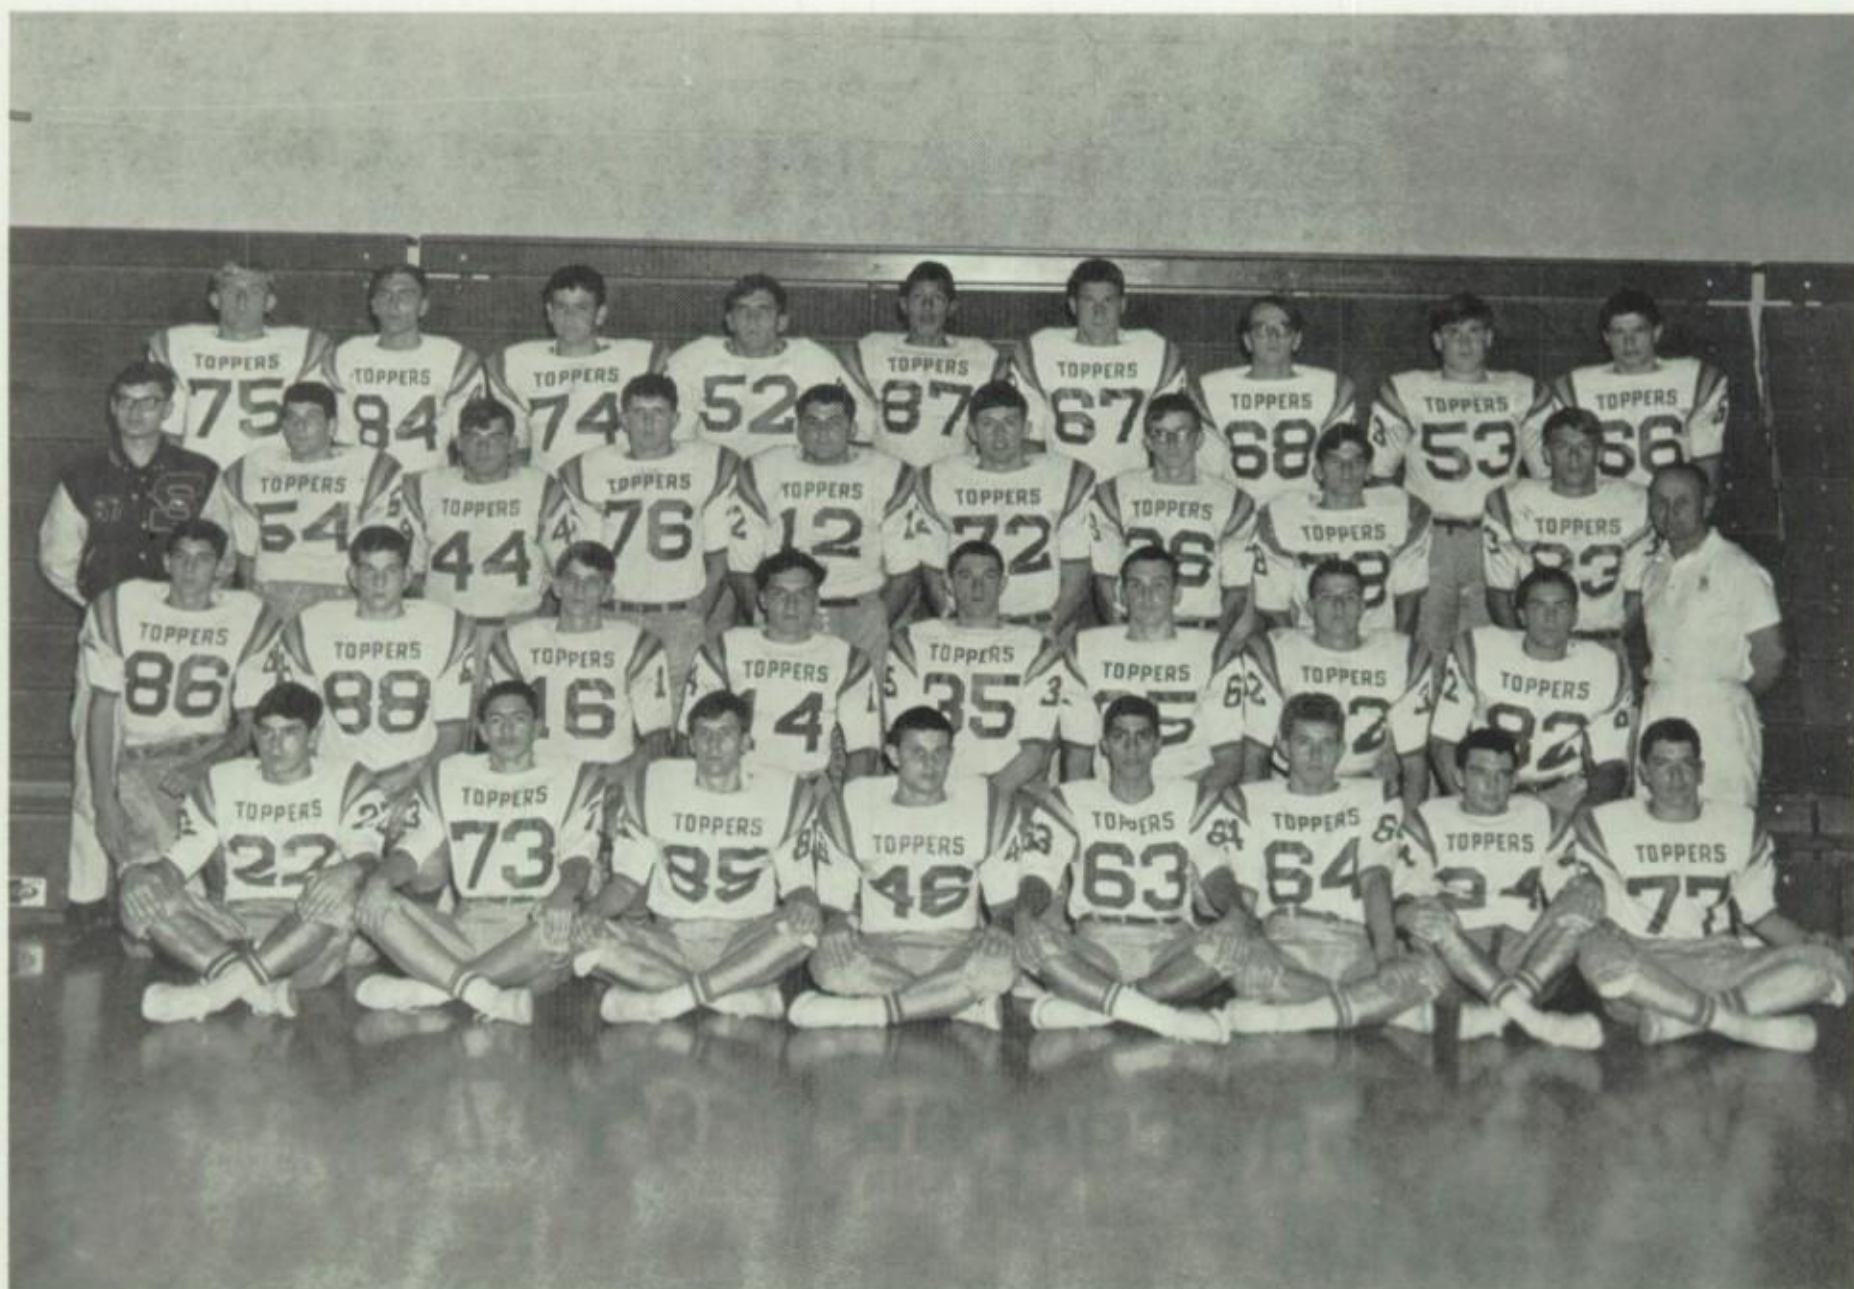

The days circled on the calendar, January 25 through 27, were special. Exams were over, half the school year was behind us. It was a time to take stock, a time for renewal, a time for prayer and thinking things through in the silence of one's own thoughts and in discussion with fellow students. It was a time for retreat.

Underclassmen were led in retreat by Father John Sullivan of La Salette Seminary, who talked to us--about us, who we are, who we should be and what we should be becoming. Conference summaries, which were distributed to the student body, emphasized the "Man of the Year 1966," Young America. General conferences were supplemented by classroom discussions led by five La Salette Fathers. The highlight of the retreat was a concelebrated Mass offered by the Fathers on the second day of retreat activities. The retreat came to an abrupt close on the second day because of a snow and ice storm.

1966 Football Highlights

Dan Doan set a new school record by racking up a total of 88 points for the season, gaining 781 yards in 142 carries. Dan - ny also led them in rushing with an average of 5.5 yards per carry. He completed 50% of his passing attempts for a total of 64 yards.

Prior to the season, Schlارman's 1966 Football Team was expected to be one of the greatest squads ever to don the blue and gold. Those expectations were not unfounded as the team played the '66 season, compiling a dazzling 8-1 record. Our fiery eleven proved that experience and brilliant coaching is the unbeatable combination for a successful campaign. The determined Toppers, led by Captain Denny James and Most Valuable Player, Dan Doan, resolved that the Vikings would be sunk and the conference title would be ours. The first goal was tackled and immediately fulfilled in the season opener. The Danville gridmen fell to the aggressive Hilltoppers by a score of 24-13. Doan was the first to hit paydirt side-stepping past the Viking defense into the endzone. With the season's biggest rival in tow the Toppers took a comparatively easy victory over Paxton, a conference foe, by a score of 28-7. Gaining momentum all the while, S.H.S. beat long-time rival, Rantoul, 34-0.

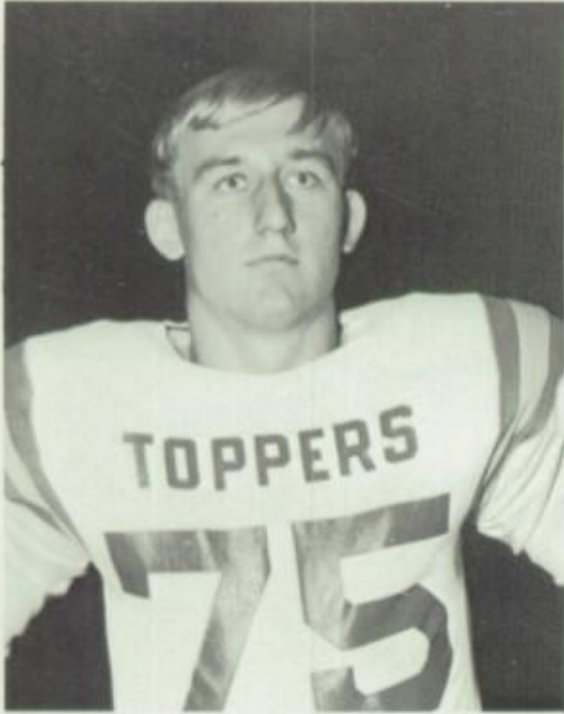

Most Valuable

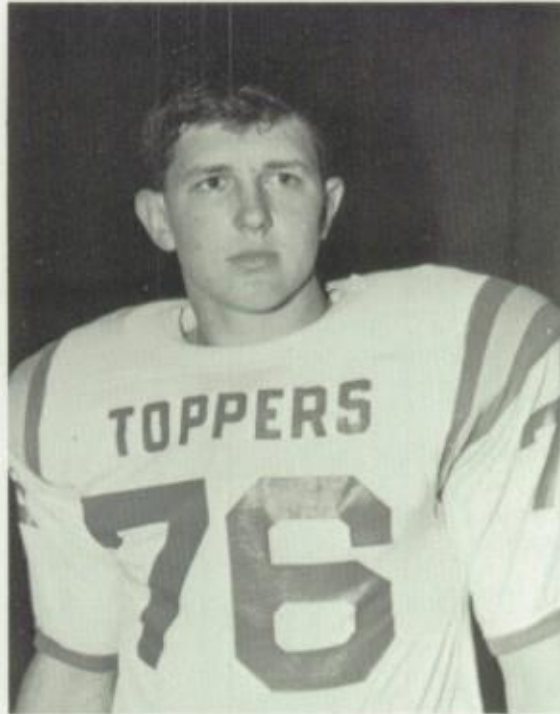

Captain

When an irresistible force meets an immovable object something has to give. After three wins the Toppers yielded to the tough Champaign Maroons led by magician-quarterback, Bruce Elliot, by a 34-7 count. Next came our Homecoming joust with the Cornjerkers from Hoopeston. Making sure that Coach Shebby's prediction at the bonfire would come true, the Toppers in their Fighting Irish style stomped the Hoopeston boys, 35-0. Continuing their march to the Wauseca conference championship the Toppers squeaked by Gibson City 14-7. Hoping to start a successful series with the Georgetown Buffaloes, the Hilltoppers clobbered them 32-6. After the victory over Oakwood 26-19 and clinching their first Wauseca Championship, the Toppers ventured to Watseka seeking an unbeaten conference record. Success was theirs with a hard earned 14-0 victory.

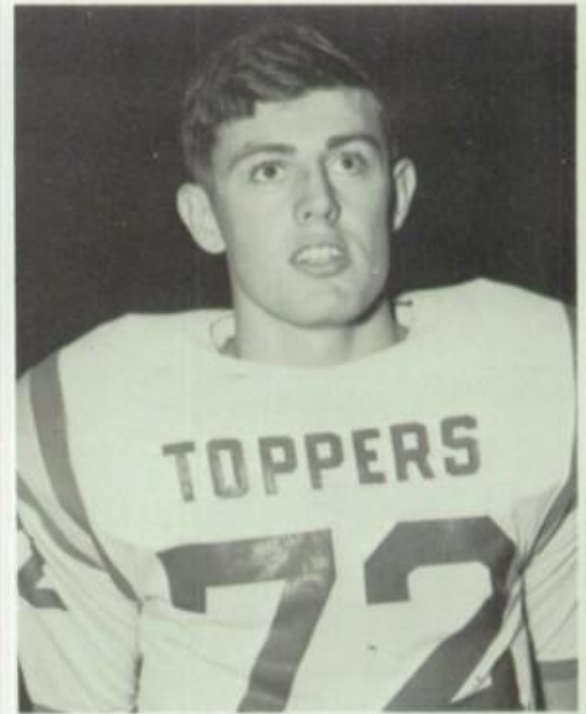

Dennis James led the Toppers in pass receptions with a total of 21 for 535 yards. Replacing the injured Greg Jones, James also intercepted three passes in the final three games. With six touchdowns to his credit, he placed second in total points.

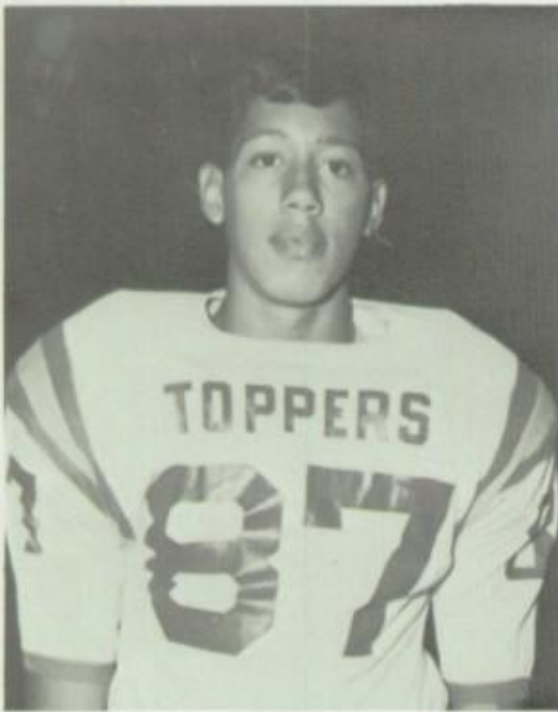

Ray Bial

John Fertaly

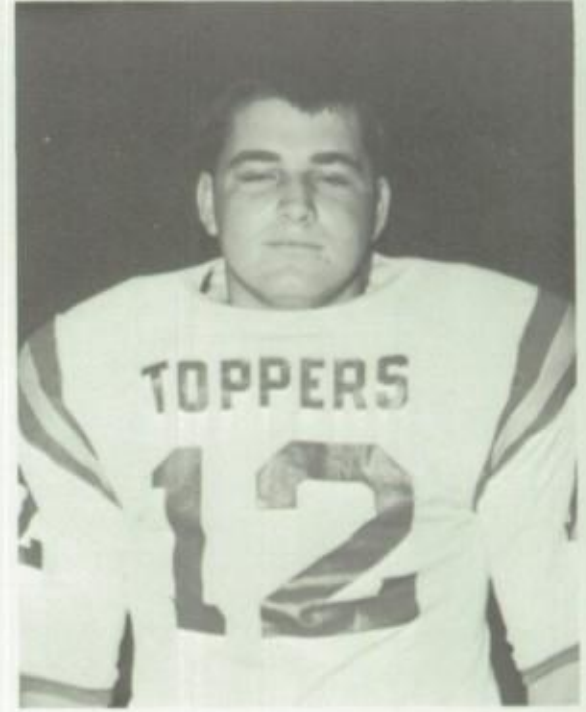

John Shields

Glenn Collier

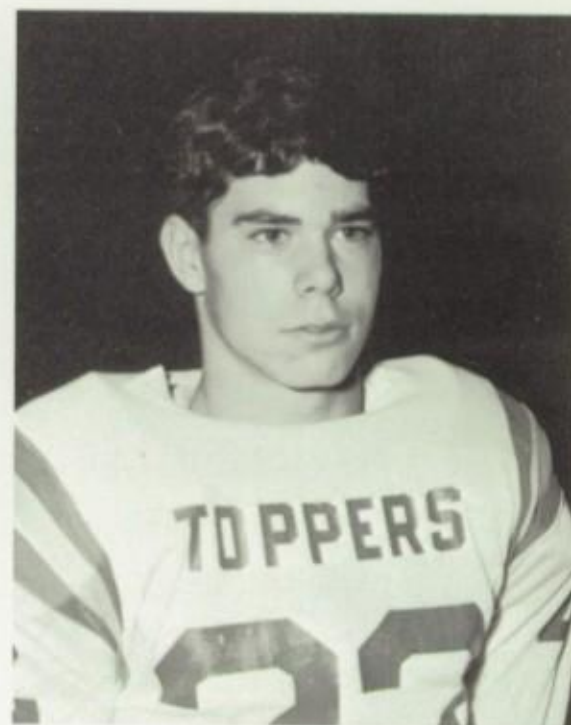

Senior John Fertaly, a two year Wauseca Conference All-Star defensive guard, captured "The Defensive Man of the Year Award" with a total of 77 tackles. Close behind John in the tabulations was Ray Bial, another two year conference All-Star. Ray was a two-way performer getting the conference nominations at linebacker his junior year and at offensive guard his senior year.

Mike Stevens, a junior, who played middle linebacker, was third on the team with 61 tackles. Senior John Shields, another outstanding defensive player brought opponents to the turf 53 times. Glen Collier, a junior defensive end, finished out the year with 41 tackles to his credit. All three received Special Mention in the Wauseca Conference All-Star Roster.

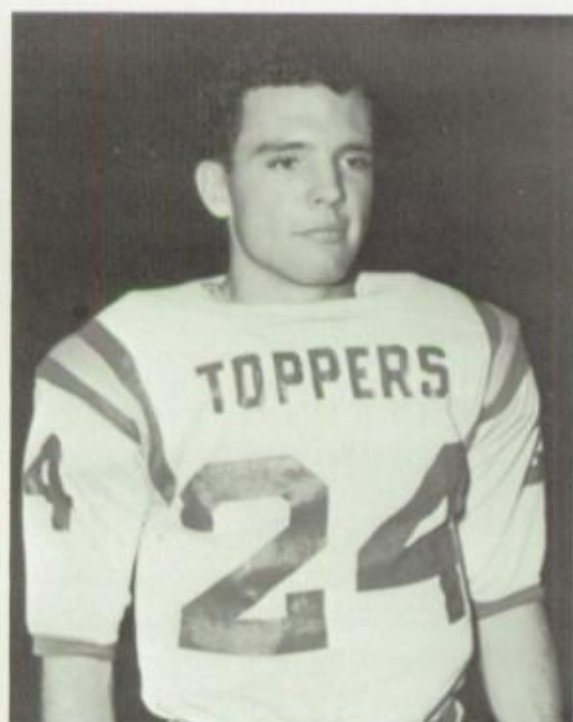

Mike Stevens

Doug Mayoras

Danny Catney

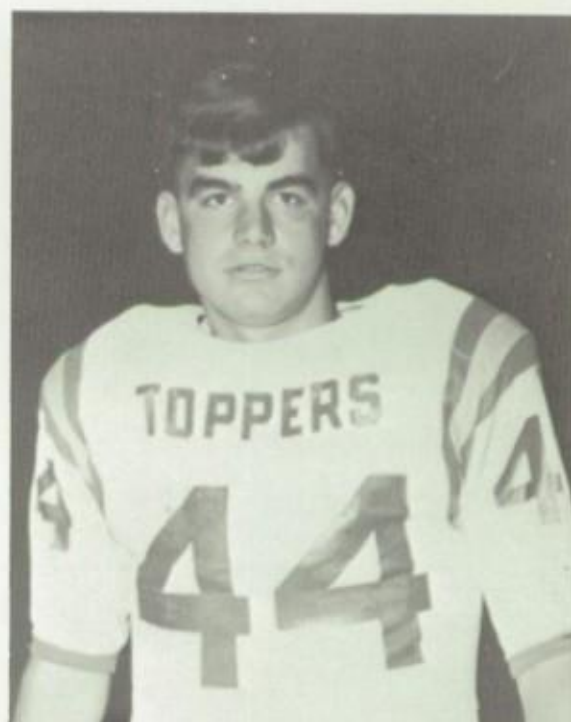

The young field general of the Toppers, Doug Mayoras, followed the long and successful tradition built up by his four brothers, firing sharp passes to his favorite targets Captain Denny James and speedster Eric Eberhardt. Doug passed for over 800 yards this past season. Along with his fine passing ability Doug scored four touchdowns on strong rollout plays. With the threat of either passing or running, Doug was always a thorn in the side of the defense.

Eric Eberhardt, a prime target of Mayoras, was second in receptions with 16 catches for 200 yards, and a total of 15 points. Along with his offensive abilities, Eric was an outstanding defensive back with four interceptions, (to lead in that department) three fumble recoveries, and two blocked punts. From his defensive position he averaged 3 tackles a game.

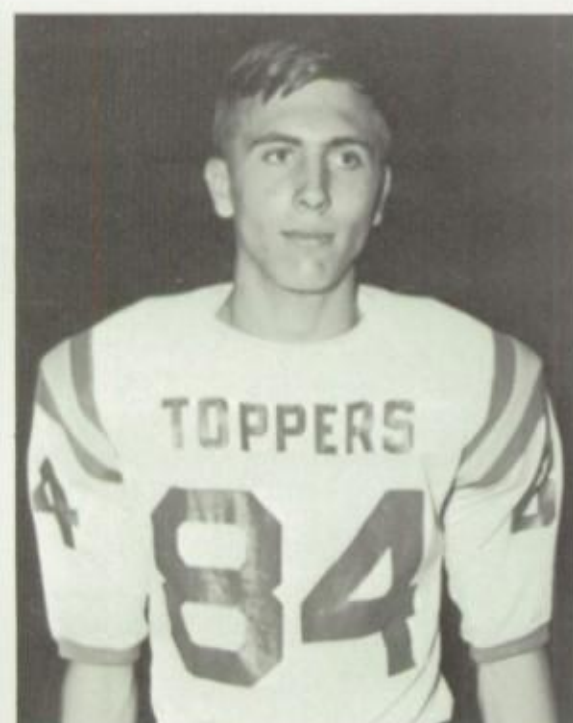

Greg Cookus was the work horse of the backfield, reaching his peak in the Gibson City game gaining 121 yards, setting up both touchdowns. Throughout the year he made key runs totaling 322 yards on the ground. Also a defensive stalwart, he averaged over five tackles a game from his linebacker spot.

Danny Catney, our fast scatback, was always a threat on punt returns because of his speed and great faking abilities. Used in spot occasions, Danny averaged about 4 1/2 yards a carry.

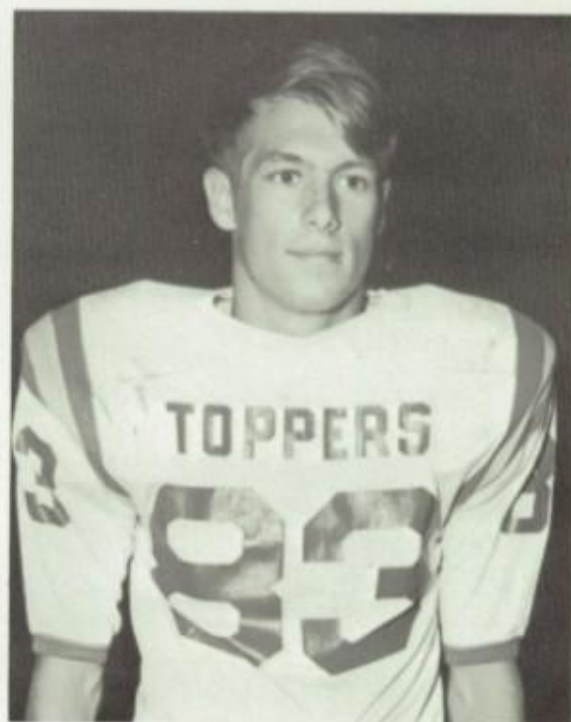

Greg Jones, a roving defensive back scored two touchdowns--one by way of an intercepted pass, the other on a fumble recovery. He was lost to the team after the Gibson City game because of a dislocated shoulder.

Jim Carey

Dan McIntyre

Jim Carey consistently boomed the Toppers out of trouble, punting for an average of more than 31 yards. He was also a mainstay in the line at offensive and defensive guard.

Danny McIntyre, a versatile utility man who played both offense and defense, came on strong near the end of the season with his place-kicking ability.

Mark Orsulak anchored down the center of the offensive line while being a team leader. Mark also manned the defensive tackle spot averaging more than five tackles a game.

Sam Saladino, the biggest lineman on the team at 205 pounds, filled the offensive tackle spot. Putting all his weight to good use, he was a dependable blocker throughout the year.

Ralph Davis led the team in downfield tackles. Whenever in a clutch situation, Ralph could be counted on for a sure tackle.

Season Highlights

Smooth is the word that best describes Schlarman's Greg Davis. The 6'5" junior forward earned the most valuable player award by compiling a 24.3 conference scoring average and a 23.5 average against all comers. Davis took rebounding honors by amassing 330 in the 24 regular season games.

Schlarman's powerful Hilltoppers smashed a number of school records as they moved to the most successful season in Schlarman's history. The '66-'67 team became the first Topper quintet to come away with an unbeaten season, posting 24 straight wins. They also copped their second straight Wauseca Title with a 12-0 conference slate. In the 24 regular season contests the Toppers averaged 70 points to their opponent's 47 points.

Defense dominated the games in the early part of the season with the offense coming on strong in the last half netting 60 or more points in 12 of the final 13 games.

Schlarman maintained a state ranking throughout the season. At the outset, the polls showed the Toppers rated 18th. They steadily moved up to a final ranking of 7th.

The Hilltoppers set four primary goals for the season: 1) To win their second Holiday Tournament; 2) To capture a second unbeaten conference crown; 3) To finish the regular season unbeaten and; 4) To finish the entire season unbeaten thus surpassing all previous Topper efforts. Schlarman warmed for the Holiday Crown by crushing cross-town rival, Danville, 54-42. They then traveled to Chicago to bring back the St. Francis de Sales Invitational

Tournament Trophy. A conference weekend followed as Watseka and Hoopston fell victim to the Topper attack. Urbana proved to be a stubborn foe but fell to the wayside along with Georgetown and Gibson City. Four quick victories, followed as the Toppers accomplished their first goal, the Holiday Tourney. Schlarman's scoring machine continued its winning ways smashing Paxton, Rantoul, and Oakwood in Conference victories. The Tigers of Paris were the next victims followed by Paxton, Covington and Hoopston.

Schlarman achieved goal number two, the conference crown, with victories over Rantoul, Watseka, Gibson City and Oakwood. The final game against the St. Theresa Bulldogs proved to be a thriller, but Schlarman finished on top 55-50; thus goal number three.

Now, as we go to press, we, the Summit staff, have full confidence in the Hilltopper's ability and hope that they accomplish their fourth goal as they have the previous three.

Coach Jim Williams relied primarily on seven performers during the season. Members of this "super seven" were Greg Davis, Don Dietz, Dave Lehnis, Jim Farrell, Chuck Dietz, Pee Wee Rohrsch-eib, and Tom Wierzb.

Dave Lehnis manned forward and guard positions this year as he captained the Toppers to their most successful season. Dave developed a devastating shooting talent which resulted in a sterling 18 point average. Although a mere 6'2", Dave joined with Dietz and Davis in sweeping the boards with 8 rebounds a game. Lehnis was also team leader in assists.

Captain

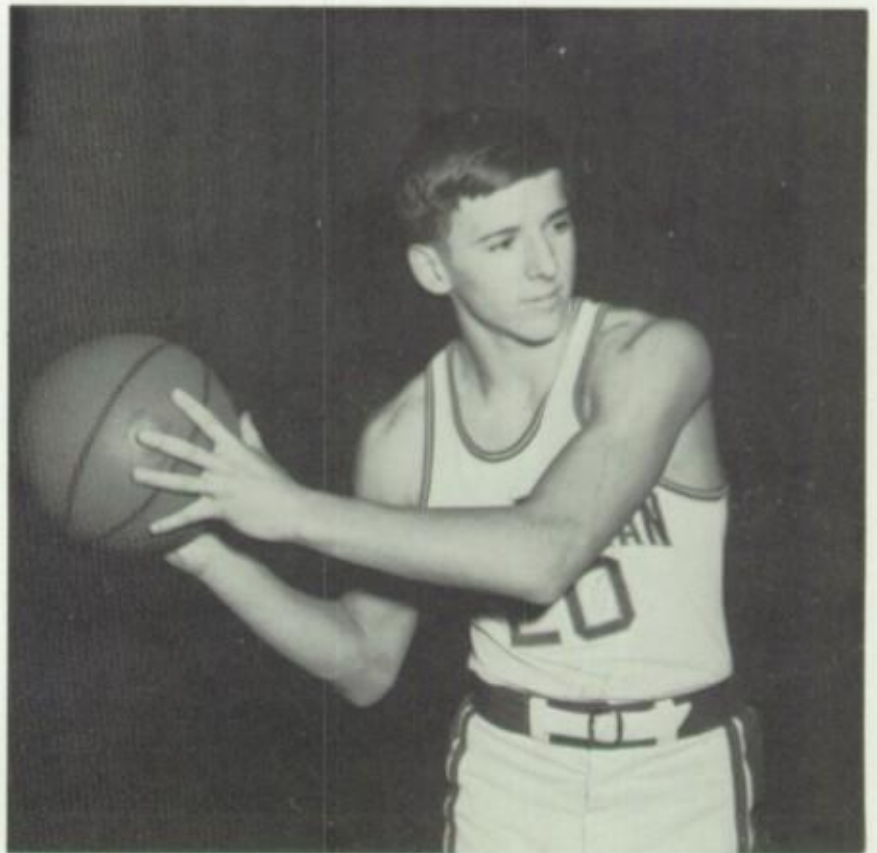

Tom Wierza

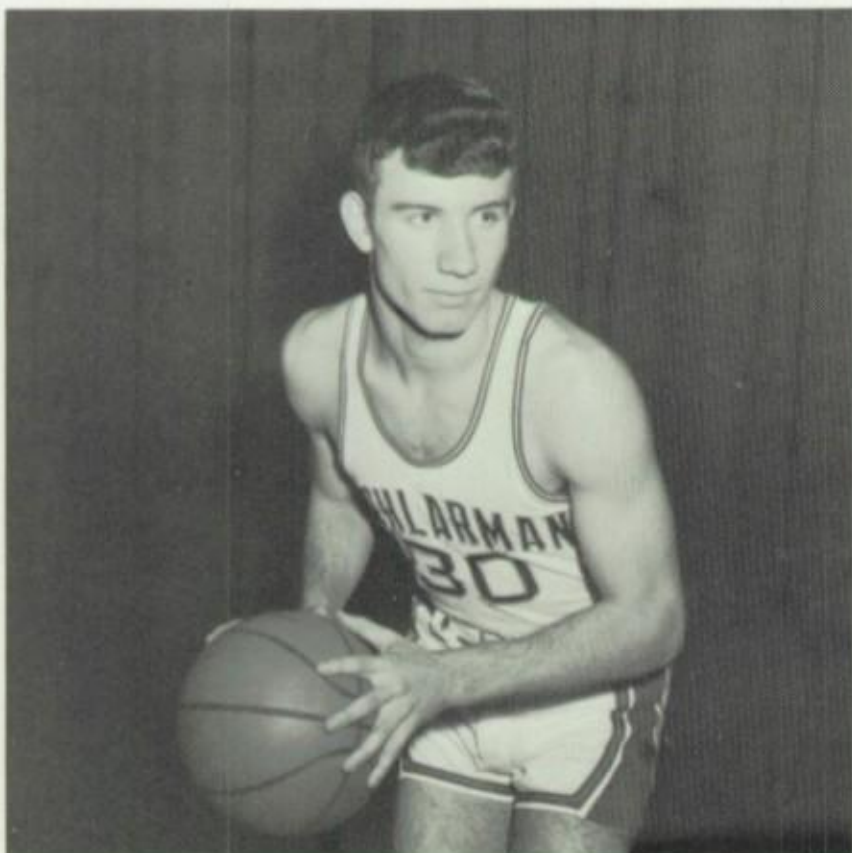

Dan Doan

Tom Wierza, 5'10" senior guard, played regularly as a member of the "super seven." "Turkey's" southpaw sharp shooting and cunning speed combined together to give him a 6 point scoring average. He also led the team in free throw accuracy by making 80% of his free throws.

Dan "Hacker" Doan terrorized opponents on the court as well as the gridiron. In his limited action, "Hacker" could always be counted on to stop the clock with a "clutch foul".

Chuck Dietz

Pee Wee Rohrscheib

Chuck Dietz, talented Topper guard, sparked the "super seven" attack regularly during the season. Aided by his deadly eye and determined hustle, Dietz posted a 6 point scoring average. His best performances were against Farragut and St. Theresa.

Urbana boy makes good! Harry "Pee Wee" Rohrscheib put the moves to many opponents in his "super seven" berth. Quickness and agility mark "Pee Wee's" playing style. His top games were against Farragut and Rantoul.

Don Dietz

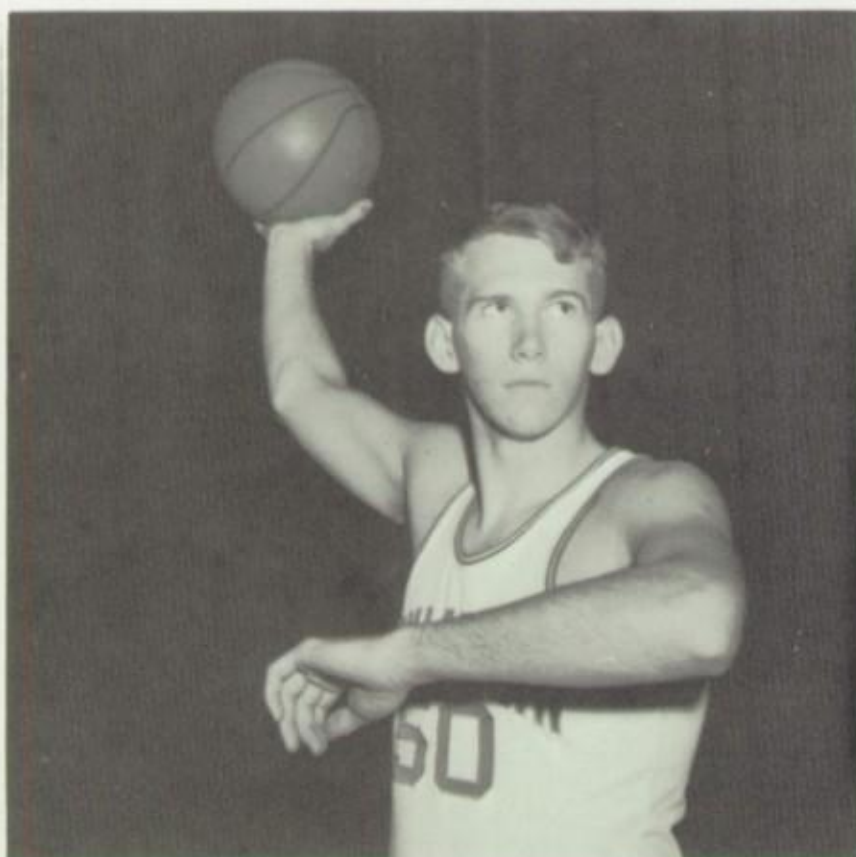

Jim Farrell

Don "Duck" Dietz, the unsung hero of the "super seven", consistently cleaned the boards for the Topper contingent. Don averaged 10 rebounds and 8 points in Schlarman's 24 regular season victories. "Duck" names St. Francis de Sales and Urbana as his top games.

Jim Farrell, 6'5" senior, did a "yeoman's" job on the boards in his role on the "super seven" squad. His grim determination and fine attitude gave him all the earmarks of being a top cager for the Hill-toppers.

Jim Carey

Tim Connelly

Jim Carey, senior forward, adopted a playing style similar to "Hack" Doan's. "Hare", in his spot performances, showed the drive and determination that marks a member of Schlarman's state ranked team.

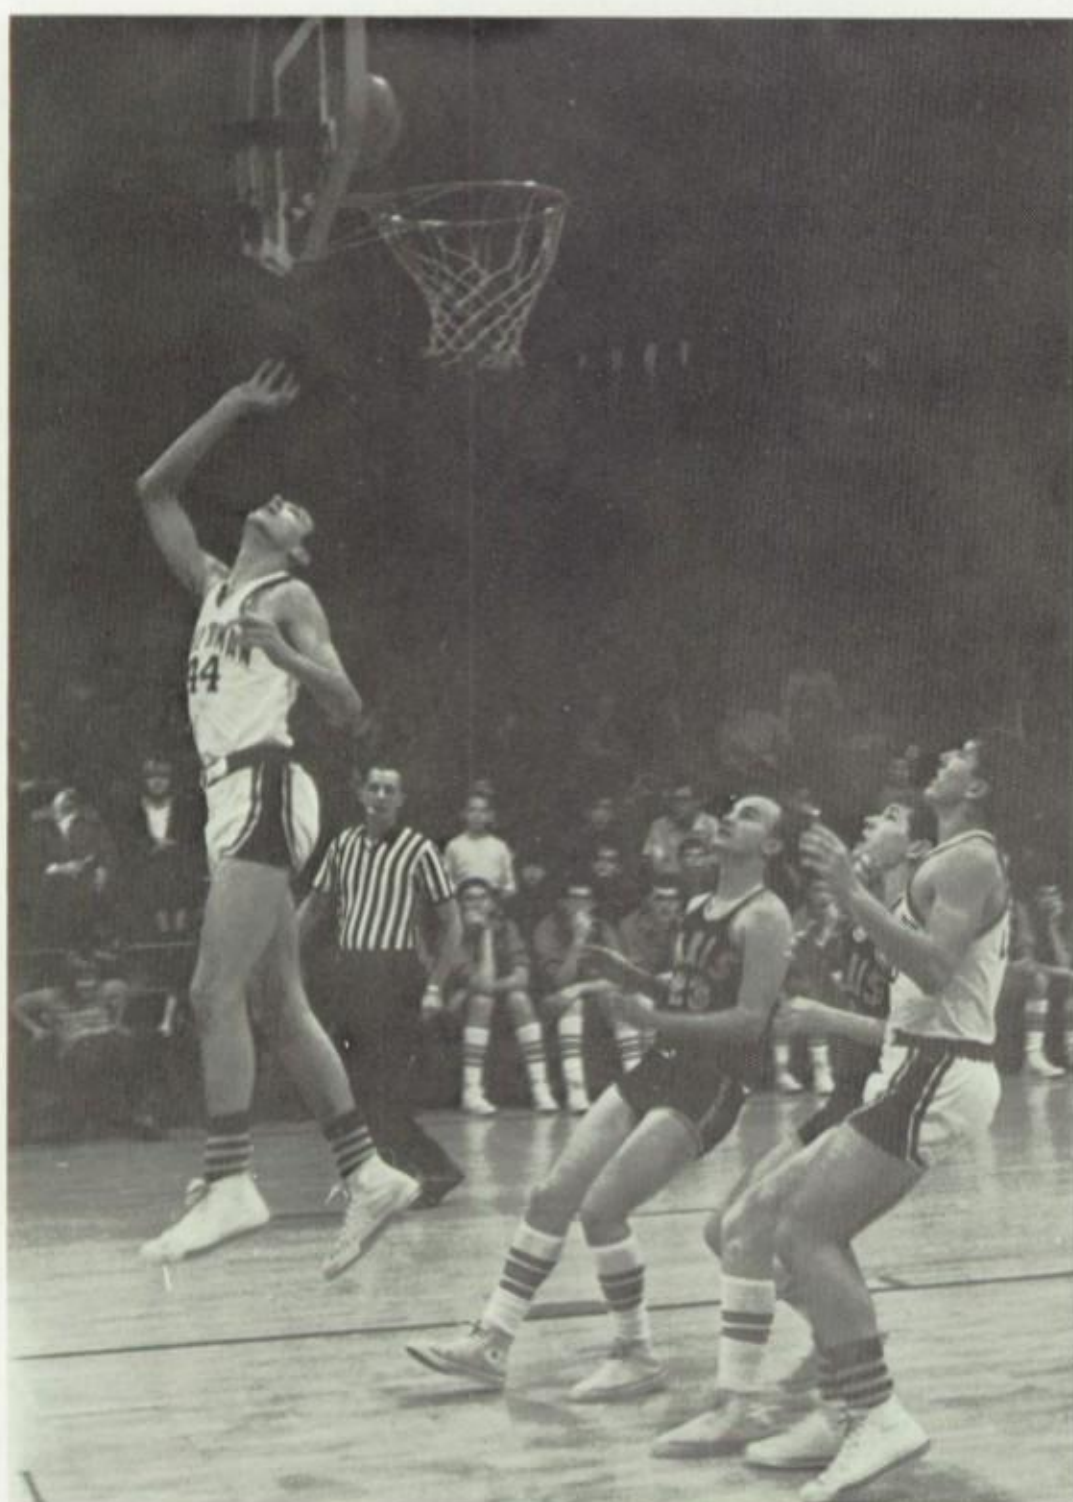

Tim Connelly, 6'6" senior center, was utilized primarily in relief roles where he proved extremely effective. "Skip's" stylish book shot is a sight that will be missed on the Hilltop in the coming year.

Toppers in Action . . .

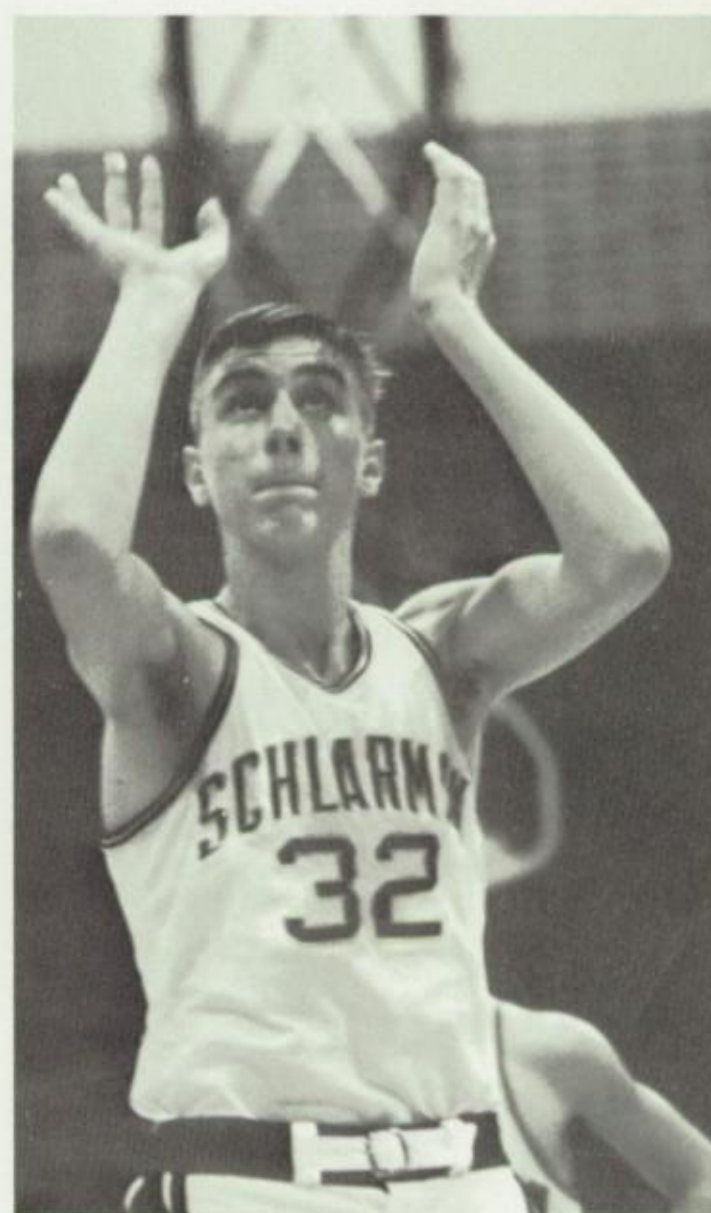

. . . Everyone in Action

A familiar sight--Lehnis up for two.

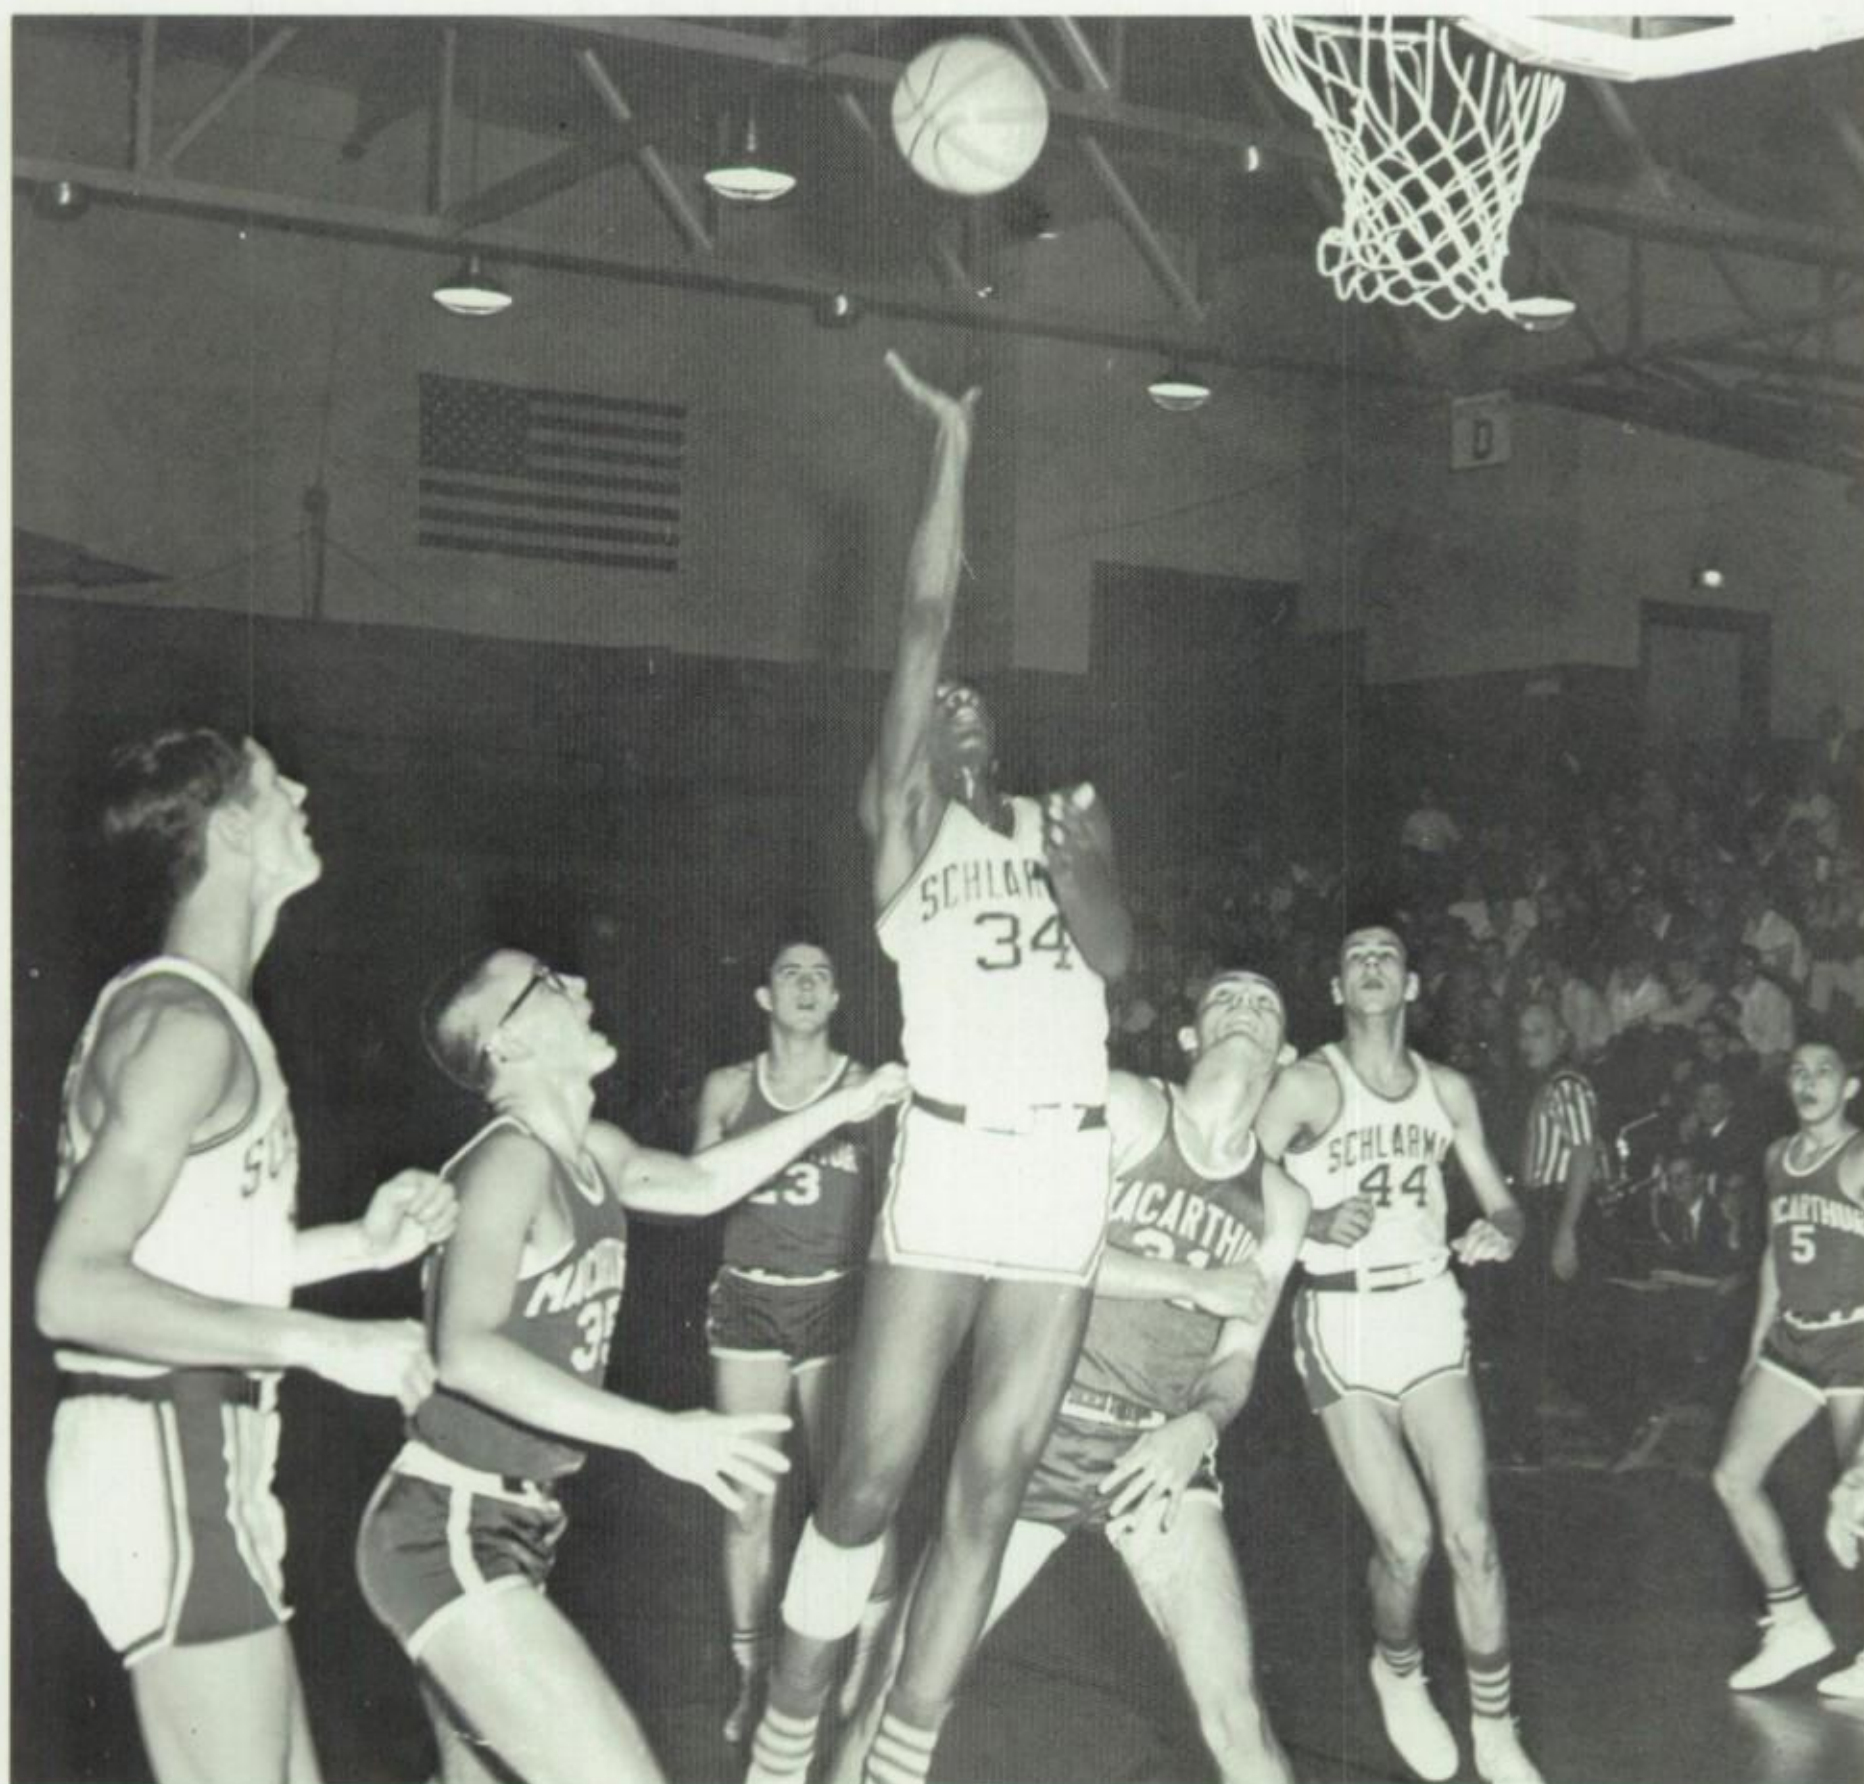

. . . now, when the "ref" gives me the ball, I'm gonna shoot it like this . . . I think that's what Williams said!

Holiday Tournament

For the second straight year, the Schlarman cagers showed why the nickname "Hilltoppers" is well deserved. With defense and rebounding as their prime credentials, they were seeded number one in the tournament. As expected Decatur Mac Arthur didn't prove to be much of an obstacle to the aggressive Toppers who powered their way to a 67-46 victory. With balanced scoring the squad pocketed a hard fought 55-46 triumph in their second game against Joliet West. Matched against a proven opponent, a staunch defense brought the Toppers their third win, a 46-44 thriller over the Urbana Tigers. One of the most dramatic highlights of the '66-'67 cage season was the vanquishing of the Farragut Admirals. Consistent accuracy from the field and remarkable agility under the boards earned Schlarman a 50-27 lead as they headed for the dressing room at halftime. With this sizable margin the Hilltoppers coasted to a 90-67 rout and the championship.

Greg Davis rewrote the record book in the Farragut game by scoring 38 points and grabbing 30 rebounds. The team as a whole broke the rebounding and scoring records by hauling down 50 rebounds and scoring more points, 90, than any other team in the championship game. Another memorable feat accomplished in the romp over Farragut was Coach William's 100th victory. Greg Davis, Dave Lehnis, and Don Dietz were chosen to the all-tourney team for their fine play throughout the tournament.

Toppers Recapture Title . . .

Hmph! The least she could do is watch me play!

3-2-1 Urbana downed . . . Bring on Farragut!!!

Rank Soars to 9th

St. Francis de Sales Tourney

Early in the year the Toppers traveled north to test the acclaimed strength of the Chicago area. The Toppers climaxed their Thanksgiving holiday trip by returning home with their first championship trophy. The Hilltoppers eliminated their first obstacle by humbling the host school, St. Francis de Sales, 74-51. Don Dietz rolled up his high point total of the year by leading the scoring barrage with 17 points. Tall Notre Dame of Niles were toppled by the rampaging Toppers 56-45 in a defensive championship battle. Dave Lehnis and Greg Davis led the way with 19 and 18 points respectively.

Yea! Captain! Yea! Lehnis!

How does Williams expect me to clean rooms and play ball too?

Rumble Beat!

Marsha Jackson, Robin Pluth, Betsy Meyer, Althea Johnson, Sally Dobbles, and Michele Devine.

During the summer, in preparation for the coming year, the varsity cheerleading squad attended Normal University's cheerleading camp where they learned to put new actions to old cheers and a number of new cheers to diversify their routines. Five days of exhausting work resulted in two first and three second place awards in the keen competitive action. Before embarking upon the 1966 football season the girls competed at the Springfield Fair with the backing of the voices of loyal Schlarmanites. Then came the gridiron action along with frozen fingers and rosy red noses, all in line with cheering the Toppers on their way to a victorious season. The whirl of a basketball game may not always find the girls winning the battle against running make-up or unruly coiffeures. Nevertheless, the name of the game they play is spirit which has always remained unruffled. Their own arm waving, hand clapping, Rumble Beat brand of enthusiasm has been a contagious spark for the fans. Junior varsity and reserve games have been brought to life by the voices and beat of the younger squad of cheerleaders whose enthusiastic beginnings promise a spirited future. All of the girls agree that, regardless of the hours of practice, cheerleading has filled an important place in their hearts and as any student will tell you, an important place in our athletic program.

Lizzie Dobbles, Beth Lesko, Kathy Sheehan, Libby Lane, Patty Timko, and Cathy Norvilitis.

Intramurals

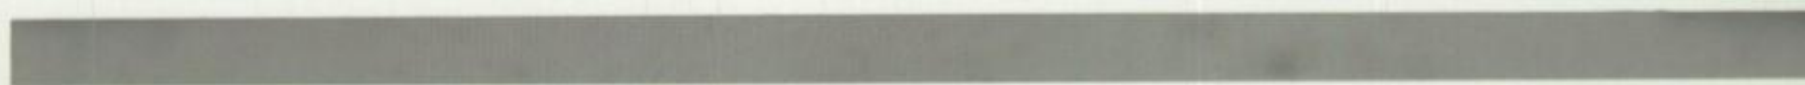

College has its Big 10 and Big 8. Illinois High School Athletic Association has its Big 12. Schlarman High School has its Big 4. These Big 4 are the freshman, sophomore, junior, and senior classes all competing for each intramural sport championship. Boys and girls alike are given an opportunity to show their hidden sports prowess. Intramural events include football, basketball, bowling, cageball, table tennis, archery and softball.

This year, as in past years, the senior class had dominated most of the activity. The past season also marked the first year that the young men from La Salette were allowed to participate in the basketball intramurals.

It has been rumored throughout the year that if S.H.S. ever acquires a new flagpole, a new event will enter the intramural system, flagpole sitting.

This year Schlarmanites noticed several significant changes brought about through the action of the Student Council. Under the leadership of Jim Ready, the student advisory group succeeded in accomplishing a task which had been proposed for three years previous to its fulfillment--the division of the school parking lot. It is through this organization that the student body can express their opinions on school policies and recommend actions for their approval. It is also through this organization that many ideas of the student body have been acknowledged and fulfilled this year.

Chorus

Junior-Senior Chorus Members

Throughout the year the Chorus regularly leads student participation in song at First Friday Masses. Chorus activities reach their peak during the Christmas season. This year the wings of song carried the chorus and carolers, Robin Pluth, Ralph Davis, Diane Gundrum, John Calvin, Linda Zedrick, Pam Hartshorn, Gary Resh, and Larry Lane, throughout the Danville area filling the holiday season with the sounds of Christmas. In addition to the two performances held for the public and the Christmas assembly the chorus and carolers of S.H.S. performed for the Elks Club, at Hotel Wolford for the Daughters of the American Revolution and at the Veteran's Administration Hospital. The carolers also sang for the United Commercial Travellers at Redwood Inn.

The old adage, "good things come in small packages", truly applies to the 1966-67 school band. Football and basketball games and pep assemblies regularly felt the presence of our mighty music makers. The end of the football season saw the emergence of the band's "new sound." Schlarman's "Tijuana Brass" led by our own "Herb Alpert," Mark Miller, added some south of the border spice to the sound of their music.

"Seventy-six trombones and a hundred and one comets" we do not have. Nevertheless, we like to think that we do have at least a few of those "rows and rows of the finest virtuosos" right here in the land of Schlarman.

First Quarter Honor Roll Posted

The number of students on the first quarter honor roll indicated that quite a few Schlarmanites are studying hard. Thirty seniors comprised nearly half of the total 61 honored students. This large number is probably due to the fact that there is an increasing awareness of the impending competition of college life among the upperclassmen.

Marsha Barber, Tim Connelly, Gretchen Damilano, Paula Davis, Katie Kinnucan, Donna Langdon, and Robin Pluth led the senior list with first honors, while Nancy Addams, Jim

The Junior Class boasted thirteen students on the honor roll. College may not seem as

The Hilltopper, the voice of S.H.S., is published five times a year under the direction of Sister Mercia. During the period which was set aside for journalistic work, the staff members wrote and researched articles, developed pictures, and did page lay-outs, all in preparation for the paper's publication. Time was also spent in class discussions, board meetings, and the reading of exchange papers. Two major changes made this year were the use of a new mast head and the organization of a cub reporter staff. A successful attempt to maintain coverage of the news events of all classes and to incorporate articles and pictures of interest to the whole student body made our little newspaper as important to Schlarman as their community news media.

Sodality of Our Lady

This year the Sodality expanded its program of activities by embarking upon projects beneficial to both Schlarman and the Danville community. The effects of the Sodality's work during the Christmas season were felt both at home and abroad. The project "Operation Christmas Card" saw Sodality members gathering the names of 200 local servicemen in Vietnam to whom they sent Christmas greetings. Closer to home and in keeping with a Sodality tradition, they decorated the school filling the halls with the spirit of the season. Preparations for First Friday Masses were also handled by the sodality this year. Underclassmen were supplied with reading material for their annual retreat through the group's efforts. The Sodalists were active in the Vista Volunteer Program, tutoring at St. Patrick's and St. Paul's parish schools. Under the direction of Fr. Klauer, the sodality has attempted to make its work a relevant force of Christian activity at Schlarman.

"S" Club

The "S" Club consists of all the students who have received a Schlarman letter. Students who have fulfilled the qualifications of each sport, who are varsity cheerleaders, and who are academically qualified are admitted. Recently the band members within the club's restrictions were granted admission.

This year, as in the past, the "S" Club sponsored the all important Homecoming pep assembly. Schlarman students can usually depend on the members to give a spirit provoking program punctuated with original ideas, and this year was no exception.

Medical Career Club

Mari Marno, Vice-President; Sharon Wolsted, President; Nancy Addams, Secretary.

Through tours of the Veterans Administration and local hospitals, and discussions with guest speakers, the members of the Medical Career Club have gained valuable information concerning the allied medical fields. Sister Mary Alberta CSC, Mrs. James Davis, and Mrs. James Harding, the club advisors, through their hours of unselfish labor, have helped greatly in making this club a very worthwhile organization at Schlarman. The Medical Career Club contributes to the awakening and enforcing of the members' desires to enter the different medical fields. Several members devoted many hours this past year to working at the local nursing homes and hospitals as nurse's aides. One of this year's special projects was the wrapping and giving of gifts to a needy family for Christmas.

National Honor Society

The Schlarman High School Chapter of the National Honor Society is under the sponsorship of Sister Bernadetta. One of the greatest honors the faculty can bestow upon a student is election to the National Honor Society. Student members receive recognition for their academic excellence, along with the qualities of Character, Service, and Leadership. Their high scholastic ability and moral character are indicated in the valuable services they perform for the school and community.

Junior Members

Schlarman and Danville High School girls combine to form the membership of the Future Secretaries of America. Sister Ann Virginia is the Schlarman sponsor. The meetings, held regularly, consist of a regular business meeting, a guest speaker, and a time for refreshments during which the girls are able to casually exchange ideas. The purpose of this organization is to provide help and guidance to young women taking commercial courses who are interested in entering the business world. Through the F.S.A., professional businessmen and secretaries have donated time and effort to prepare the business leaders of tomorrow.

My Dear Graduates:

GRADUATES OF TODAY ARE CALLED UPON TO BECOME A DECISIVE FACTOR IN THE SOCIETY IN WHICH WE MUST LIVE.

We are forced to exist in an environment characterized by confusion, revolt, and irresponsibility. The members of our nation, our friends, our relatives, our immediate family are found in opposing camps. The security and self-confidence which we have known and experienced throughout our lives is in danger. Our nation has forgotten the meaning, or the feeling of peace. Internal strife, characterized by the lack of Christian virtue, has become part and parcel of the life which we are asked to live. We, who have matured in an environment primarily directed to the fostering of Christian virtue, are called upon to influence this society. We are called upon to make the name of Christ and the Christ life mean something more than a casual expression and a prudish type of living. We are asked to continue the work of the apostles within the state of life which we may choose. We must have the fervor of Peter, the wisdom of James, the apostolic spirit of Paul, the charity of John.

Professional choice is facing the graduate. A decision must be made which will influence the graduate's entire future life. This decision must be mature, intelligent, reasonable, and made in the light of a true estimate of the graduate's abilities, ideals, and preferences. Often individuals are inclined to seek goals which are unreasonable in light of the factors mentioned above. If the graduate is to play a decisive role in society, he must locate his own niche and not merely attempt to follow in the footsteps of those close to him who have gone before him. He must lead his own life in light of the social and moral principles which he has been taught.

GRADUATES OF TODAY ARE CALLED UPON TO BECOME A DECISIVE FACTOR IN THE SOCIETY IN WHICH WE MUST LIVE.

While choice of profession is important and often decisive, the choice of vocation is probably the most important decision that a person will make. Will the graduate live and influence society in the married state? Will it be as a single person? Or shall the graduate assume the obligations of the religious state? When we consider the mistakes made by many because of haste, emotional involvement, lack of serious thought, we hesitate, or should hesitate, to approach this decision in a haphazard manner. Serious thought should be given to each of the various vocations. Often an individual will presume that he or she is committed to a vocation in life without considering the other possibilities. Such a presumption is often costly to the individual and the society. As the individual errs society suffers.

GRADUATES OF TODAY ARE CALLED UPON TO BECOME A DECISIVE FACTOR IN THE SOCIETY IN WHICH WE MUST LIVE.

The story of Schlarmen '67 reaches its climax in the next few pages.

Spirit, athletics, and organizations lead into the core of Schlarmen's life--the administration and faculty. Their pictures, which capture them in a frozen moment of time hold them in unfamiliar stillness.

We're much more accustomed to a moving, resounding appearance. Our picture of the faculty focuses on the living, moving, growing vitality they give to Schlarmen's Spirit who comes to life under their direction. We easily recall being assigned, what we like to think of as, unbelievable amounts of homework and being given a seemingly never ending battery of tests. Their voices ring clear in tones of authority and concern, amid the laughter of classroom comedy, mingled in the cheer of "go you Toppers," and above the silence of a captive audience listening to little sermons directed to the poor in spirit at S.H.S. Our picture includes a familiar pose taken after school when they become willing listeners. It is easy to picture them at various angles and positions in their own animated styles at a desk stand, behind a desk or atop a desk. Our mental portrait includes the hand of direction emerging over our shoulder, before a map or blackboard or across a lab counter. Never to be forgotten are the expressions which read our masked thoughts, revealingly stenciled in blank stares or more happily disclosed by eager attention. Not visible in photographic stillness but nevertheless the most memorable aspect of our picture includes the quality which easily escapes the camera's winking eye but not our own wide-eyed day to day experience--dedication.

It takes more than teachers to operate a school. Did you ever consider who would answer the phone and ring the bells if Darlene wasn't around? John and Frank are always busy doing some menial task around the school such as removing locks from lockers and resetting clocks. It isn't easy to prepare a meal for more than three hundred people five days out of the week, but the ladies on the cafeteria staff do a fine job of it. Study halls are an unique experience if Mrs. Lash is presiding. Rarely does a day pass that one doesn't see her counting absentees or money--be it ticket, book, lunch, or yearbook money. The seemingly little things that these people do to assist the faculty and students add up to an important part of Schlارman.

Class of '67

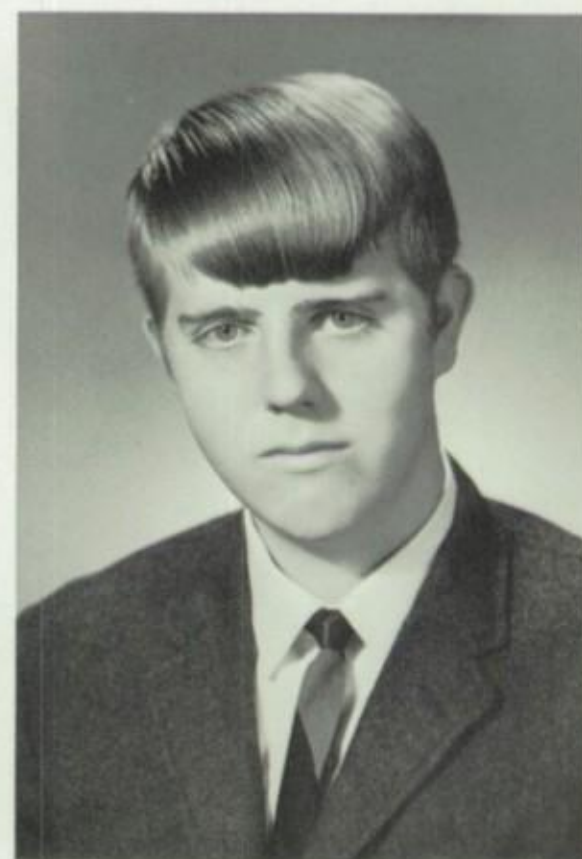

Cooperation among the students served to promote the enthusiasm with which the Class of '67 passed through their Alma Mater. Although they were only greenies, as freshmen the Class of '67 initiated the Spirit "S" and with it came a tremendous boost to the general spirit of Schlarman. As sophomores, some of the more creative members of the class designed and painted the Hilltopper plaque which hangs in the gymnasium. As these two years passed, it became evident through athletic and scholastic performances that this class would accomplish much in their remaining years at Schlarman. As juniors, the entire class worked together pooling their ingenuity, artistic talents, hard work, and much time and effort to present to the 1966 graduating class an unforgettable prom. Grasping for maturity as seniors, they not only functioned within the limits of their class, but they also acted to improve the whole school through the Student Council and to improve their city by taking an active interest in the city government and community projects. Upon graduation, the Seniors left behind an enviable impression--one which should influence each member of the class as they advance into the future.

Class of '68

The Junior class of Schlarman High School has not been lax in contributing to the list of attributes which makes our Alma Mater one of the best around. One of the most outstanding feathers in the class of '68's cap is their distinctive new school ring. Last year they engaged in many grueling discussions, knocking around ideas until they came up with what is now the most beautiful school ring Schlarman has ever had. There were also many outstanding athletes to be found among the ranks of the up-coming Seniors. Earlier in the year, a Junior won the coveted half-back position on the Little All-State team. And certainly deserving recognition was the quartet which made up the junior portion of our outstanding basketball team. Typical of the class of '68's determination to be at its best at all times was its resolution early in the year to make this year's prom a really memorable one.

All the excitement at the beginning of the second semester among the Juniors was stirred by the arrival of their new class rings. The rings, designed by the Junior class, were blessed and distributed by Father James Morrissey during the First Friday Mass on February 3.

The chosen design consists of the school emblem on the face of the ring, raised engravings of the school entrance and a shield representing scholarship, athletics, and drama on the side panels. In addition to the new design, students were offered a choice of six colored stones in either gold or silver bands.

The Sophomore Class might be better known as the in-between class. This is the year when nothing too noteworthy happens. To the Freshman everything is new. The Juniors receive their rings and plan for the prom. For the Seniors, it is really their big year. The Sophomores just stand in the wings watching and voicing their opinions on the goings on around them. Though they do nothing spectacular they are always busy. As the year began the Class of '69, equipped with jars and nets, set out to collect bugs for Biology. This was the first time Sophomores taking this course collected insects instead of leaves. Also new to them was the task of selecting Harvest Festival and Homecoming Attendants. With everyone in the class approaching the age of sixteen, Driver Education was a much awaited course. Finally at the end of the year as Sophomores, they planned and served the Baccalaureate dinner.

The equipment was familiar; blackboards, desks, books. The atmosphere, however, made a world of difference. It is an atmosphere that greenies step into awkwardly. Sometimes it's this atmosphere that causes them to bump into people in the halls, drop an armload of books, or fail to be able to open a combination lock. The Class of '70 managed to adjust to their new educational environment easily. A big step in the right direction was their "get acquainted" party which was held in order to let the students in their class get to know each other in surroundings other than the classroom. Anxious to become a relevant part of high school life, they eagerly joined various school activities and organizations open to them. Doing tons of homework, switching classrooms, and learning calisthenics were just a few of the hurdles they had to take in stride. Judging from their progress this year, it's almost possible to believe that those giggling girls and mischievous boys are going to be Sophomores.

The Impossible

From the musical play, "Man of La Mancha"

Lyrics by: Joe Darion

Music by: Mitch Leigh

To dream the impossible dream, to fight the unbeatable foe, to bear with unbearable sorrow, to run where the brave dare not go. To right the unrightable wrong, to love pure and chaste from afar, to try when your arms are too weary, to reach the unreachable star!—This is my quest, to follow that star, no matter how hopeless, no matter how far; To fight for the right without question or pause, to be willing to make it into hell for a heavenly cause! And now, if I'll only be true to this glorious quest, that my heart will lie peaceful and calm when I'm laid to my rest, and the world will be better for this: That one man, scorned and covered with scars, still strove with his last ounce of courage, to reach the unreachable stars.
